Episcopalians Urged To Aid 'Black People'

SEATTLE (AP) — Episcopalians were asked today to raise $1 million a year for the next three years "to enable organizations of black people, in programs under their control, to gain economic and political power."

The Rt. Rev. John E. Hines, presiding bishop of the 3.5-million-member Episcopal church, issued the call in a five-point program he submitted to the executive council. The 43-member council is holding a two-day meeting prior to the opening of the church's triennial general convention Sunday.

Bishop Hines said he worked out the proposed program after soliciting advice from Negro leaders. He said their report warned the church to reform itself.

Bishop Hines' program proposes the council:

—Bring black people into decision-making roles.

—Use its political and economic power to support justice and self-determination for all men, and seek to influence others to do the same.

—Make available skilled personnel assistance and at least $1 million a year during the next triennium to enable organization of black people in programs under their control to gain economic and political power.

—Administer these efforts through coalitions with other churches and agencies for the purpose of eliciting similar efforts from other groups.

—Approve a reordering of the priority ratings in the proposed general church program as a part of our response to the national crisis.

Thieu-Ky Opponent Sent to Jail

SAIGON (AP) — The No. 2 man in South Vietnam's presidential race Truong Dinh Dzu, was convicted today of writing a bad check five years ago and transferring money abroad illegally last year.

The Saigon criminal court sentenced him to three months in prison on the check charge and six months on the other and fined him $27,711. The sentences are to be served concurrently, meaning a total of six months in prison.

Dzu, who was not in court for the trial, said the charges were false and he would appeal the broadside into the northbound auto driven by Yates. The cars were carried 61 feet by the force of the impact.

BOTH were demolished. Meadows had a restrictive driver's license. It was valid only during the daylight hours and if he were wearing glasses with corrective lenses.

Meadows' brother was killed in a similar accident at the same intersection about three years ago, Deputy McGinnis was told by persons at the scene of the accident.

Helen Funk, Clarksburg, a passenger in the car driven by Yates, was taken to Chillicothe Hospital where she was admitted for treatment of a broken pelvic bone, head injury, a laceration of the left leg and internal injuries.

Meadows and three passengers in his car were taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Admitted were Betty Smith, 27, the mother of the dead child, for treatment of a fractured shoulder and internal injuries; Judy Baker, 19, Route 2, Williamsport; for treatment of injuries to the shoulder, hands and head.

Meadows was released after X-rays were taken.

Pope Steps Up Work Schedule

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI is stepping up his work schedule, Vatican sources reported today.

They said the pontiff is recovering so well from his exhaustion and inflammation of his urinary system that no more daily medical bulletins will be issued for the time being.

It was being taken for granted that when the Pope is sufficiently recovered he will undergo surgery to correct the prostate condition diagnosed as the underlying cause of his illness. The only uncertainty appeared to be a date for the operation, and informants said that would be decided within the next week.

conviction. He charged the military government was trying to get him because of his political opposition to it.

Dzu, a lawyer, was acquitted on a third charge that he collected a fee of 150,000 piasters—$1,270—from a Vietnamese client he had not defended.

Early this year he was the attorney for several Americans imprisoned on currency charges who accused him of trying to extort money from them, but no formal charges have been filed against him in that case.

Dzu ran second in the election

MILWAUKEE COUNTER-MARCH — White marchers countering Father James Groppi's open housing marches in Milwaukee, Wis., carry a mock casket for the Catholic priest, and a sign bearing ungrammatical message "YOU NO WE'RE ALRIGHT, UPTIGHT OUT OF SIGHT, WE NO WE'RE RIGHT, CAUSE WE'RE WHITE."

Army, Guerillas Clashing in Delta

SAIGON (AP) — A crack American army combat team stormed ashore from river gunboats today, flushed 500 hard-core guerrillas in the muddy Mekong delta and locked with them in a bloody battle.

Initial reports told of continuing fighting in the rainswept paddyfields 45 miles southwest of Saigon.

Communist gunners shot a strafing F100 U.S. Sabre Jet from the skies, but the pilot ejected about four miles from the raging battle and a helicopter rescued him.

The eruption of fighting in the delta paralleled continued heavy Communist pressure along South Vietnam's northern river where artillery and mortar duels spanned the Demilitarized Zone and high-flying B52 bombers drubbed suspected Red staging areas with tons of bombs.

With heavy weather again limiting missions over North Vietnam, U. S. fighter-bombers also concentrated on the DMZ battlefield where all signs point to a powerful Red buildup.

The guerrilla battalion caught in the Mekong delta was a companion unit to the hard-core 514th Battalion which lost 134 dead in the same area only two days before. That outfit had gone into battle with new green fatigues and jaunty red scarves, indicating its elite status.

The battle today broke out shortly after dawn as a battalion of the U. S. 9th Infantry Division disembarked from gunboats that pushed up the Rach Ba River, which flows sluggishly into the Mekong.

As the infantrymen hit the beach they were struck by fire from machine guns and recoilless rifles. The Navy gunboats opened up with cannon and mortar fire.

A second American battalion moved up in support and a third battalion swept into blocking positions just to the north, putting some 2,000 Americans on the battlefield.

Jet planes from bases barely 10 minutes away began to rake the guerrilla battalion with bombs and rockets, churning the delta mud and ripping apart the bamboo stands where the Reds sought cover.

The infantry operation was a sample of the new delta tactic called riverine warfare in which quick-striking forces move by shallow-draft gunboats from Navy barracks ships moved close inshore. The battle today was in Dinh Tuong Province, where the Viet Cong was virtually unopposed until the riverine forces moved in early this year.

Chinese-Indian Dispute Quiet

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indian troops in the Nathu Pass on the Sikkim-Tibet border have not fired a single shot for 36 hours and the Red Chinese have fired only scattered salvos, an Indian Defense Ministry spokesman said today.

The spokesman also said there has been no sign of Chinese planes since fighting broke out Monday between Chinese and Indian patrols in the 14,000-foot-high pass.

The United News of India reported a Chinese threat Wednesday to bring in their air force if the Indians did not stop firing.

Ex-Astro Star Dies

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Walter Bond, 29, former first baseman-outfielder for the Houston Astros baseball team, died of leukemia Thursday. Bond was traded to the Minnesota Twins in the spring of 1966. But his best year in the major leagues was with Houston in 1964 when he drove in 85 runs, a club record which stood for three years.

Milwaukee Braces for Disturbance

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Milwaukee braced today for possible weekend opening housing demonstrations.

The city was relatively calm Thursday after four nights of battles between brick and bottle throwing whites and police firing tear gas.

About 50 police officers wearing riot helmets and carrying night sticks patrolled the troubled South Side area after two straight nights of violence.

Some 200 Negro open housing marchers trooped from their headquarters in the Inner Core toward the South Side, where they had been stoned earlier in the week. Then they turned down Milwaukee's main street, Wisconsin Avenue, to City Hall. They circled the building and returned to the Inner Core without incident.

The Rev. James E. Groppi, a white Roman Catholic priest and adviser to the Milwaukee Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has vowed he will continue the open housing demonstrations until the Common Council enacts an open housing code. The council has rejected an open housing code four times.

U.S. Wastes Millions, Probe Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has wasted millions of dollars in shipping broken-down construction equipment to Vietnam, says a Senate investigator.

The money was spent to repair equipment, Joseph Lippman said Thursday, but much of the machinery wasn't repaired or was beyond repair.

Lippman, chief investigator for the Senate subcommittee on foreign aid expenditures, blamed the foulup on the Agency for International Development. He said AID paid contractors to put the equipment, most of it armed services surplus, in working order.

Rex Lee, assistant AID administrator, said the equipment was sent in to help the Army cope with the problem of unloading ships during the massive U.S. military buildup. Much of the equipment has since been put to use elsewhere, he added.

But Lee conceded some machinery was irreparable and useless, and added: "In a case of this type, where you have a big buildup in war conditions, mistakes are bound to happen."

70,000 Arrested In Egypt, Report

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Daily News said today that Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's agents have arrested more than 70,000 persons in crushing an army plot against him, and have shot hundreds.

A copyright story from Beirut, Lebanon, by correspondent Fred Sparks said arrests are continuing at a rate of 1,000 a day and Cairo is "a city of quiet fear."

Sparks said he flew to Beirut to escape Egyptian censorship, but "I witnessed some of the arrests and saw the fear surging through Cairo while I was in the city."

Identity Held Up On Model Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development is expected to postpone announcing its long-awaited choices for the model cities program until Congress completes action on funding requests for it, sources say.

A total of 193 cities want planning grants.

The sources said HUD officials may already have decided it would be poor strategy to make the announcement just before final congressional action—expected within a few weeks.

The question is whether to risk losing support of congressmen who could be disappointed if their cities are not chosen, the sources said.

A spokesman for HUD Secretary Robert C. Weaver would say only that nothing is holding up the announcement except the selection process.

Weaver previously has said the extensive delay has not resulted from an order from the White House. He said the only cause for delay was the unexpectedly time-consuming job of processing the cities' applications.

It was learned, however, that the matter has reached Weaver's desk.

Other sources said HUD officials also may have decided they could make better decisions on which—and how many—cities are to be selected when they know how much money Congress will provide. Initial planning-grant funds already are available.

The 193 cities applying for planning grants are competing for a total of $11 million in available funds. At the start, each of the 90 or so chosen will receive a grant to prepare a program for one so-called model neighborhood in the city.

For fiscal 1968, another $12 million is being asked for second-stage planning grants.

Announcement of the selected cities originally was to have been made in June. Then it was to be mid-July. Then it was to be "when it is announced."

LBJ, Graham Disagree on U.S. Morals

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — President Johnson's statement that he doesn't think morality is declining in the United States has drawn a rejoinder from evangelist Billy Graham.

Johnson made his statement in a speech here Thursday before the International Association of Police Chiefs. But Graham, who is conducting a crusade in Kansas City, told 23,000 persons he disagreed.

"Anyone who sees the tide of pornography on the newstands and on the motion picture screens, the rising illegitimacy and venereal disease rates, would have to agree that there is a decline of national standards and values," Graham said.

The President, while condemning the "wretched, vulgar men" he said spawned this summer's riots in the cities, also declared: "The responsibility this nation has shown in meeting its human obligations at home and abroad convinces me that America is morally strong today."

He said that rather than "hand-wringing" about crime in the streets, the nation needs a policy for action to fight it. He called upon the members of the International Association of Chiefs of Police to support his proposed Safe Streets and Crime Control Act.

While in Kansas City the President drove to nearby Independence to visit former President Harry S. Truman. Johnson and the 83-year-old Truman spent about 10 minutes together at the Truman home.

Johnson flew back to Washington shortly afterward.

Mrs. Levine Now Missing From Home

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Police said today that former go-go dancer Delores Levine, 20, wife of Harry "Binny" Levine Jr., was reported missing Thursday by her mother, Mrs. Helen Halley.

The missing girl's husband was accused of slaying his mother, father and grandmother in the family's apartment last Dec. 10. He was found innocent of a charge of murdering his mother last June and was freed July 1 after the grand jury failed to return indictments in the other deaths.

Authorities said Mrs. Halley said her daughter had been missing since her 20th birthday July 29.

Levine, officers said, has been missing since an order committing him to a mental hospital was filed in probate court a few days after his wife disappeared.

Mrs. Halley said all of the couple's clothing and personal belongings were still at their home, and told police she feared "foul play."

Firing Blazes On Highway In East Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gunfire punctured tires in two trucks in Columbiana County early Friday as violence continued in a steel-trucking strike in spite of stepped up patrolling of highways in the area.

Both shootings today were on a 10-mile stretch of U.S. 50 between Lisbon and Hanoverton and occurred at about 4 a. m. This stretch of the Lincoln Highway had been the scene of gunfire on trucks earlier in the week.

Joe Andrews of East Liverpool, driver for Commercial Motor Freight, reported three tires punctured. He said he believed the shots were fired from a roadside ambush.

Michael Hinton, 22, of Wells-ville, driver of an Ashland oil truck, said six shots were fired at his rig from a car which followed the truck and had its bright headlights on. He said four tires were flattened.

Andrews and Hinton both were headed east and had empty trailers.

The Highway Patrol post at Lisbon and the Columbiana County sheriff's office had extra police cruisers on the roads Thursday night because of the earlier shootings.

Ralph Sublett, 24, of Hincley, had tires of his rig punctured by shots near East Liverpool earlier this week—an incident which brought from a Teamsters Union official a plea that steel haulers stop operations.

"All the steel in the world isn't worth a man's life," said James Stockard, president of Teamsters' Local 571 in Lorain.

One driver has been wounded in the shootings—Alex Baker, 36, of Monroe Falls, who was hit in the arm by a bullet fired from a car at his truck near Medina Thursday morning.

Negro Youths Throw Rocks In Richmond

CHICAGO (AP)—Negroes thronged the streets of a South Side neighborhood Thursday, hurling rocks and curses at police after a meeting protesting alleged police brutality.

The skirmishing and window-smashing began after the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and other neighborhood groups held a street rally protesting the alleged police beating of an 18-year-old Forestville High School girl student.

By the time it ended, some seven hours later, 13 persons—including 6 policemen—were injured and 47 persons were under arrest on charges including aggravated battery, mob action and disorderly conduct.

Almost 300 extra police were moved into the area around the high school. The street crowds, tossing rocks at passing cars and screaming insults were estimated at 1,000 persons at times.

Joyce Brown, executive secretary of SNCC in Chicago, charged that the girl, Corinne Roby, 18, was beaten Tuesday by two policemen, one white and the other Negro. She said SNCC and other groups called a protest rally for noon near the high school.

U.S.-Soviet Talks Going Well, Report

GENEVA (AP) — U.S. disarmament negotiator William C. Foster said today he expects U.S.-Soviet talks on the treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons to be "successfully concluded within the next few weeks."

Foster, head of the American delegation at the 17-nation disarmament conference, flew to Washington to consult with administration officials on developments in the Geneva talks. He said he expected to return shortly.

Russia Slices Missile Gap, Report Says

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union has reduced U.S. missile superiority from nearly 4 to 1 to less than 3 to 1 this year and has stepped up a production program that will cut the lead still further in 1968, the Institute for Strategic Studies said today.

The authoritative institute reported also that Red China has stockpiled an estimated 30 relatively small atomic bombs, but it said there was no indication that Peking's nuclear program is operational yet.

The private institute was founded in 1958 as an international center for research on defense, world security and disarmament. Its 13-nation council gathers information from private and governmental sources and its own researchers.

The report said Russia nearly doubled its long-range missile arsenal this year and has installed around Moscow antiballistic missiles with nuclear warheads that would permit limited protection against attack.

A British defense ministry expert said earlier this week that the Russians are believed to have developed a giant rocket which releases a shower of H-bombs, each capable of being guided to a separate target.

This could neutralize the Americans' numerical lead in this field," said Air Commodore Neil Cameron in the Royal Air Force Quarterly.

Both shootings today were on a 10-mile stretch of U.S. 30 between Lisbon and Hanoverton and occurred at about 4 a. m. This stretch of the Lincoln Highway had been the scene of gunfire on trucks earlier in the week.

Joe Andrews of East Liverpool, driver for Commercial Motor Freight, reported three tires punctured. He said he believed the shots were fired from a roadside ambush.

Michael Hinton, 22, of Wellsville, driver of an Ashland oil truck, said six shots were fired at his rig from a car which followed the truck and had its bright headlights on. He said four tires were flattened.

Andrews and Hinton both were headed east and had empty trailers.

The Highway Patrol post at Lisbon and the Columbiana County sheriff's office had extra police cruisers on the roads Thursday night because of the earlier shootings.

Ralph Sublett, 24, of Hincley, had tires of his rig punctured by shots near East Liverpool earlier this week—an incident which brought from a Teamsters Union official a plea that steel haulers stop operations.

"All the steel in the world isn't worth a man's life," said James Stockard, president of Teamsters' Local 571 in Lorain. One driver has been wounded in the shootings—Alex Baker, 36, of Monroe Falls, who was hit in the arm by a bullet fired from a car at his truck near Medina Thursday morning.

Negro Youths Throw Rocks In Richmond

CHICAGO (AP)—Negroes thronged the streets of a South Side neighborhood Thursday, hurling rocks and curses at police after a meeting protesting alleged police brutality.

The skirmishing and window-smashing began after the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and other neighborhood groups held a street rally protesting the alleged police beating of an 18-year-old Forestville High School girl student.

By the time it ended, some seven hours later, 13 persons—including 6 policemen—were injured and 47 persons were under arrest on charges including aggravated battery, mob action and disorderly conduct.

Almost 300 extra police were moved into the area around the high school. The street crowds, tossing rocks at passing cars and screaming insults were estimated at 1,000 persons at times.

Joyce Brown, executive secretary of SNCC in Chicago, charged that the girl, Corinne Roby, 18, was beaten Tuesday by two policemen, one white and the other Negro. She said SNCC and other groups called a protest rally for noon near the high school.

Episcopalians Urged To Aid 'Black People'

SEATTLE (AP) — Episcopalians were asked today to raise $1 million a year for the next three years "to enable organizations of black people, in programs under their control, to gain economic and political power."

The Rt. Rev. John E. Hines, presiding bishop of the 3.5-million-member Episcopal church, issued the call in a five-point program he submitted to the executive council. The 43-member council is holding a two-day meeting prior to the opening of the church's triennial general convention Sunday.

Bishop Hines said he worked out the proposed program after soliciting advice from Negro leaders. He said their report warned the church to reform itself.

Bishop Hines' program proposes the council:

—Bring black people into decision-making roles.

—Use its political and economic power to support justice and self-determination for all men, and seek to influence others to do the same.

—Make available skilled personnel assistance and at least $1 million a year during the next triennium to enable organization of black people in programs under their control to gain economic and political power.

—Administer these efforts through coalitions with other churches and agencies for the purpose of eliciting similar efforts from other groups.

—Approve a reordering of the priority ratings in the proposed general church program as a part of our response to the national crisis.

Thieu-Ky Opponent Sent to Jail

SAIGON (AP) — The No. 2 man in South Vietnam's presidential race Truong Dinh Dzu, was convicted today of writing a bad check five years ago and transferring money abroad illegally last year.

The Saigon criminal court sentenced him to three months in prison on the check charge and six months on the other and fined him $27,711. The sentences are to be served concurrently, meaning a total of six months in prison.

Dzu, who was not in court for the trial, said the charges were false and he would appeal the conviction. He charged the military government was trying to get him because of his political opposition to it.

Dzu, a lawyer, was acquitted on a third charge that he collected a fee of 150,000 piasters—$1,270—from a Vietnamese client he had not defended.

Early this year he was the attorney for several Americans imprisoned on currency charges who accused him of trying to extort money from them, but no formal charges have been filed against him in that case. Dzu ran second in the election to the military ticket made up of Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. He campaigned on charges against the government and a promise to seek peace.

Since the election he has charged the Thieu-Ky military government with stealing the election.

Dzu and five other defeated presidential candidates on Thursday announced the formation of a "militant democratic opposition front" to oppose the new government of President-elect Thieu and Vice president-elect Ky.

Dzu was charged with illegally transferring $11,500 to an account in the Bank of America in San Francisco.

Dzu said the money was not transferred out of Vietnam but was put in the San Francisco bank by American friends to pay for the education of two of his children. One is studying at Los Angeles and the other at the University of California at Stanford University.

He said most of the money was from friends in Rotary International, of which Dzu is a member.

Congressional Fight Looms Over Proposed Tax Break

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new battle is shaping up in Congress over the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance—a tax break described as a sacred cow by its critics and a vital part of the national interest by its supporters.

The provision intact since its adoption by Congress in 1926 permits oil and gas producers to deduct for tax purposes up to 27½ per cent of their gross income. The deduction cannot exceed half a producer's net income.

Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, senior Republican member of the Senate Finance Committee, said he plans to carry the ball again in hopes of reducing the allowance to 20 per cent over three years.

His strategy will be to attach his amendment to President Johnson's bill for a 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes—should the House eventually send that measure to the Senate.

Failing this, Williams said he'll try to tack it to the administration's tax revision package which President Johnson promised to send to Congress this year.

Williams said he doesn't want to eliminate the allowance but merely to reduce it and force oil and gas companies to pay what he called their fair share of the tax load.

One supporter of the 27½ per cent allowance, Rep. A. Sydney Herlong Jr., D-Fla., a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, disputed the loophole label frequently applied to the provision.

The allowance, Herlong said, enables the industry to meet the nation's steadily increasing need for oil at a reasonable price to consumers.

Supporters contend it's needed to help offset the costs of finding and developing new oil resources.

Depletion allowances on other resources range from 5 to 23 per cent.

Romney's Declaration Seen Soon

He Meets with Rockefeller In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. George Romney appears today to have sailed his hat closer to the Republican presidential ring.

But the Michigan Republican said he had made no decision on when he might formally announce his candidacy.

He was scheduled to make a walking and driving tour in two poverty areas of Brooklyn today and confer with top city officials from the police department, planning commission and human resources administration.

Romney talked politics and issues over dinner Thursday night with New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and afterward acknowledged, "I have a good feeling."

Romney had declined to discuss politics during a 19-day coast-to-coast tour which he insists is "nonpolitical" and aimed at finding possible solutions to big city racial problems.

But after dining at Rockefeller's Fifth Avenue apartment, Romney eased his vow of silence at an informal late-night news conference at the hotel he is using as headquarters during his three-day stay in New York.

He and Rockefeller, Romney said, talked over a whole range of issues, including politics and public reaction to Romney.

There have been published reports that Rockefeller, one of Romney's chief boosters, had urged that his brother Republican speed up a formal announcement of his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

Romney declined to comment on whether he and Rockefeller had talked about that.

Romney indicated that he had been encouraged by the reaction of people during the first four days of his cross-country trip aimed at putting him in 17 cities in 12 states in 19 days.

Cars Collide, 16 Injured In Columbus Intersection

COLUMBUS Ohio (AP) — Police accident investigators said today a piece of carpeting under a gas pedal appeared to have touched off the chain of events when two cars plunged into lunch time crowds at a main downtown intersection Thursday. Seventeen persons were hurt.

Sgt. Carl Bailey said a piece of carpeting under the accelerator of a car driven by Mrs. Rozalia Bridges, 42, caused the car to speed out of control through three blocks of Gay Street in downtown Columbus.

Bailey indicated that since mechanical failure appeared to have caused the accident, no charges will be filed. Mrs. Bridges, police said, fought for four blocks to try to bring her auto under control after the accelerator stuck at Broad and Fourth streets.

The crash of her car with another, sending both into crowds of pedestrians, took place at High and Gay streets.

Mrs. Bridge's car struck one driven by Clifton L. Bishop, 74, former mayor of St. Louisville, Ohio, and both cars swerved into pedestrians before coming to rest in the sidewalk, pinning some victims against the Ohio National Bank on the southwest corner of the intersection. The sidewalks were filled with shoppers and office employees on lunch.

A policeman called it the "worst downtown traffic accident I've ever seen."

Three of the victims were admitted to hospitals, including Bishop, who remains in critical condition.

Three of the victims were admitted to hospitals, including Bishop, who remains in critical condition.

Mrs. Bridges told police the engine speeded up and she could not stop the car with the foot or emergency brake. Officers said she did not turn off the ignition.

Officers said Mrs. Bridges went four blocks yelling out the window and blowing the horn to warn other motorists. She struck another car and one time went left of center to avoid hitting a line of traffic.

A policeman directing traffic said he narrowly missed getting hit and estimated Mrs. Bridges' speed at 40-50 miles an hour. No charges were filed.

Others injured were Bishop's wife, Mable, 72; and two passengers in Mrs. Bridges' car her mother, Mrs. Carri Booker, 60, Columbus and Mrs. Bridges' aunt, Mrs. Claudia Kelly, 55, Bluefield Va.

Pedestrians hurt included Leah Ginsburg 53; Mrs. Bobby Isaacs, 37, Newark, and her son, Timothy, 2.

Only Bishop Mrs. Ginsburg and the Isaacs boy were admitted to hospitals.

NYC Teachers Stay on Strike; No Talks Slated

NEW YORK (AP)—The city's public school strike was in its fifth day today, with no formal negotiations scheduled and fewer and fewer of the 1.1 million pupils showing up for the make-shift classes.

The city Board of Education, which rejected a union bid for new talk, was back in court trying to have the union's top three officers jailed and the union itself fined.

Negotiations, some open and some secret, took place earlier in the week, but with no apparent success.

School Supt. Bernard E. Donovan said Thursday he told Albert Shanker, president of the striking AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers, there was "not much point in rehearsing the same things."

A hearing on criminal contempt charges brought by the city against Shanker and two other union officials was postponed at the union's request until today by State Supreme Court Justice Emiliano Nunez.

Growing Negro unrest over the tie-up erupted Thursday night when a group described as Black Power advocates blockaded a top school official in his office and demanded a part in negotiations.

Police arrested 12 persons on charges of criminally trespassing after they sought to prevent Acting School Supt. Nathan Brown from leaving his office. He had listened to them first for an hour.

It was the most serious incident since the 49,000-member UFT began their strike Monday, the start of the fall school term, over wages, working conditions and policy issues.

Earlier both sides agreed the tie-up could last a long time. "It may very well be that this difficult situation may last for some time," said Donovan. "At the moment it does not look very optimistic."

The union bid to resume contract talks came during a telephone conversation between Donovan and Shanker.

Although the 900 schools remained open attendance fell to below 400,000. One class of third graders met at the Museum of Natural History around the corner from their school.

Their parents refused to let them cross the picket lines.

The UFT is seeking a wage scale for teacher of $7,500 to $18,000 a year as opposed to the present scale of $5,400 to $11,950. A special three-man mediation panel recommended a scale of $6,600 to $13,600 a year.

The city said the package would cost $125 million over two years.

Among the nonsalary issues are union demands for smaller classes and greater teacher initiative in handling disruptive pupils in the classroom.

The latter issues has caused considerable Negro opposition to the strike on grounds it would prove a racial weapon against Negro pupils in the hands of white teachers.

Flying Debris Burns Child

An explosion of a rubbish-burning container sent a local 6-year-old to Berger Hospital Thursday with second and third degree burns. The child and other ER patients were released following treatment.

Debbie Barker, 6, daughter of Mrs. Kinzie Barker, 230 E. Franklin St., received second and third degree burns of her right arm and left hand when a piece of plastic from burning trash flew from the container.

Robert Jones, 35, Wickliffe, O. fractured the small toe of his right foot when it was caught in a luggage rack at a local motel.

Walter Jenkins, 16, of 466 Starkey Drive, stepped on a rusty nail and received a puncture wound of his right foot.

Elizabeth Butcher, 75, of 137 Walnut St., fell on a sidewalk causing bruises and abrasions to her right knee.

Richard Phaelen, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Phaelen, Kingston, fell off a chicken house lacerating his chin.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON (AP) — The Health, Education and Welfare Department will conduct surveys this fall to determine the racial makeup of schools throughout the country.

This will be the first time Northern schools have been surveyed, in line with a congressional demand that the nondiscrimination guidelines be applied everywhere, not just the South.

The guidelines are to go into effect early next year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — "We have a long way to go to balance mouths to feed with food to feed them," says William S. Gaud, head of the Agency for International Development.

Gaud made the comment in announcing that $3.8 million will be spent on programs of technical assistance in family planning to India and other developing countries. India will get $1.3 million for contraceptives.

Capital Footnotes William C. Foster, chief U.S. disarmament negotiator, returns to Washington today from the Geneva disarmament conference for consultation and a brief vacation.

Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, proposes congressmen be allowed larger deductions for expenses and tighter restrictions on outside business affiliations, including a ban on travel paid for by private firms or foreign countries. He says that as things stand now, unreimbursed expenses reduce a congressman's true salary from $30,000 annually to $18,000 or $20,000.

Ford, Union Renew Talks About Strike

DETROIT (AP) — Negotiators for Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers return to the bargaining table today with no indication that they can bring a quick end to the union's strike against Ford, now in its ninth day.

Both sides have met only once since bargaining broke off Sept. 7 after midnight, and that was just to set up today's parley.

Close to 160,000 workers are off the jobs at Ford's operation in 25 state.

The top item on what the union calls its "longest and most ambitious list of demands" yet made are not on today's agenda.

The chief topics will be such noneconomic issues as the union's demand for more say in the firm's subcontracting policies and for more precise lines of demarcation for skilled workers' jobs.

The union also is seeking a substantial wage increase, equal pay for Canadian and American workers, and some form of guaranteed annual income.

Sgt. Carl Bailey said a piece of carpeting under the accelerator of a car driven by Mrs. Rozalia Bridges, 42, caused the car to speed out of control through three blocks of Gay Street in downtown Columbus.

Bailey indicated that since mechanical failure appeared to have caused the accident, no charges will be filed. Mrs. Bridges, police said, fought for four blocks to try to bring her auto under control after the accelerator stuck at Broad and Fourth streets.

The crash of her car with another, sending both into crowds of pedestrians, took place at High and Gay streets.

Mrs. Bridge's car struck one driven by Clifton L. Bishop, 74, former mayor of St. Louisville, Ohio, and both cars swerved into pedestrians before coming to rest in the sidewalk, pinning some victims against the Ohio National Bank on the southwest corner of the intersection. The sidewalks were filled with shoppers and office employees on lunch.

A policeman called it the "worst downtown traffic accident I've ever seen."

Three of the victims were admitted to hospitals, including Bishop, who remains in critical condition.

Three of the victims were admitted to hospitals, including Bishop, who remains in critical condition.

Mrs. Bridges told police the engine speeded up and she could not stop the car with the foot or emergency brake. Officers said she did not turn off the ignition.

Officers said Mrs. Bridges went four blocks yelling out the window and blowing the horn to warn other motorists. She struck another car and one time went left of center to avoid hitting a line of traffic.

A policeman directing traffic said he narrowly missed getting hit and estimated Mrs. Bridges' speed at 40-50 miles an hour. No charges were filed.

Others injured were Bishop's wife, Mable, 72; and two passengers in Mrs. Bridges' car her mother, Mrs. Carri Booker, 60, Columbus and Mrs. Bridges' aunt, Mrs. Claudia Kelly, 55, Bluefield Va.

Pedestrians hurt included Leah Ginsburg 53; Mrs. Bobby Isaacs, 37, Newark, and her son, Timothy, 2.

Only Bishop Mrs. Ginsburg and the Isaacs boy were admitted to hospitals.

NYC Teachers Stay on Strike; No Talks Slated

NEW YORK (AP)—The city's public school strike was in its fifth day today, with no formal negotiations scheduled and fewer and fewer of the 1.1 million pupils showing up for the make-shift classes.

The city Board of Education, which rejected a union bid for new talk, was back in court trying to have the union's top three officers jailed and the union itself fined.

Negotiations, some open and some secret, took place earlier in the week, but with no apparent success.

School Supt. Bernard E. Donovan said Thursday he told Albert Shanker, president of the striking AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers, there was "not much point in rehearsing the same things."

A hearing on criminal contempt charges brought by the city against Shanker and two other union officials was postponed at the union's request until today by State Supreme Court Justice Emiliano Nunez.

Growing Negro unrest over the tie-up erupted Thursday night when a group described as Black Power advocates blockaded a top school official in his office and demanded a part in negotiations.

Police arrested 12 persons on charges of criminally trespassing after they sought to prevent Acting School Supt. Nathan Brown from leaving his office. He had listened to them first for an hour.

It was the most serious incident since the 49,000-member UFT began their strike Monday, the start of the fall school term, over wages, working conditions and policy issues.

Earlier both sides agreed the tie-up could last a long time. "It may very well be that this difficult situation may last for some time," said Donovan. "At the moment it does not look very optimistic."

The union bid to resume contract talks came during a telephone conversation between Donovan and Shanker.

Although the 900 schools remained open attendance fell to below 400,000. One class of third graders met at the Museum of Natural History around the corner from their school.

Their parents refused to let them cross the picket lines.

The UFT is seeking a wage scale for teacher of $7,500 to $18,000 a year as opposed to the present scale of $5,400 to $11,950. A special three-man mediation panel recommended a scale of $6,600 to $13,600 a year.

The city said the package would cost $125 million over two years.

Among the nonsalary issues are union demands for smaller classes and greater teacher initiative in handling disruptive pupils in the classroom.

The latter issues has caused considerable Negro opposition to the strike on grounds it would prove a racial weapon against Negro pupils in the hands of white teachers.

Flying Debris Burns Child

An explosion of a rubbish-burning container sent a local 6-year-old to Berger Hospital Thursday with second and third degree burns. The child and other ER patients were released following treatment.

Debbie Barker, 6, daughter of Mrs. Kinzie Barker, 230 E. Franklin St., received second and third degree burns of her right arm and left hand when a piece of plastic from burning trash flew from the container.

Robert Jones, 35, Wickliffe, O. fractured the small toe of his right foot when it was caught in a luggage rack at a local motel.

Walter Jenkins, 16, of 465 Starkey Drive, stepped on a rusty nail and received a puncture wound of his right foot.

Elizabeth Butcher, 75, of 137 Walnut St., fell on a sidewalk causing bruises and abrasions to her right knee.

Richard Phaelen, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Phaelen, Kingston, fell off a chicken house lacerating his chin.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Health, Education and Welfare Department will conduct surveys this fall to determine the racial makeup of schools throughout the country.

This will be the first time Northern schools have been surveyed, in line with a congressional demand that the nondiscrimination guidelines be applied everywhere, not just the South.

The guidelines are to go into effect early next year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — "We have a long way to go to balance mouths to feed with food to feed them," says William S. Gaud, head of the Agency for International Development.

Gaud made the comment in announcing that $3.8 million will be spent on programs of technical assistance in family planning to India and other developing countries. India will get $1.3 million for contraceptives.

Capital Footnotes

William C. Foster, chief U.S. disarmament negotiator, returns to Washington today from the Geneva disarmament conference for consultation and a brief vacation.

Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, proposes congressmen be allowed larger deductions for expenses and tighter restrictions on outside business affiliations, including a ban on travel paid for by private firms or foreign countries. He says that as things stand now, unreimbursed expenses reduce a congressman's true salary from $30,000 annually to $18,000 or $20,000.

Romney declined to comment on whether he and Rockefeller had talked about that.

Romney indicated that he had been encouraged by the reaction of people during the first four days of his cross-country trip aimed at putting him in 17 cities in 12 states in 19 days.

Both sides have met only once since bargaining broke off Sept. 7 after midnight, and that was just to set up today's parley.

Close to 160,000 workers are off the jobs at Ford's operation in 23 states.

The top item on what the union calls its "longest and most ambitious list of demands" yet made are not on today's agenda.

The chief topics will be such noneconomic issues as the union's demand for more say in the firm's subcontracting policies and for more precise lines of demarcation for skilled workers' jobs.

The union also is seeking a substantial wage increase, equal pay for Canadian and American workers, and some form of guaranteed annual income.

Circleville Police are investigating a bogus $20 bill that was believed passed in the local Firestone Store.

The bill was in a deposit made by the store at the Savings Bank.

It is the second counterfeit bill that has turned up in Circleville in the past two weeks.

An accident suit was dismissed "with prejudice to new action" in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Thursday.

The suit was filed originally by Juanita Teets against Harry Carter and the Circleville Cab Co. It involved an accident that occurred March 23, 1965 on Route 159 near Tarlton.

Opportunity For College Given by USN

The test date for the 22nd annual national competitive NROTC examination has been set as Dec. 19. Parents and high school officials should remind eligible high school seniors and graduates to submit their applications before Nov. 17.

The regular NROTC program offers an outstanding opportunity for a young man to gain a regular commission while studying at one of the 52 NROTC colleges and universities. The Navy furnishes tuition fees, books, and uniforms, plus a subsistence allowance of $50 per month to NROTC midshipmen.

Each summer NROTC midshipmen go on interesting at-sea training periods. After completing his college course and all military requirements, an NROTC midshipman is commissioned as a regular officer in the U. S. Navy or Marine Corps and goes on active duty with the operating forces.

The program is available to male high school seniors and graduates who will have reached their 17th but not 21st birthday by July 1. Those who make a qualifying score on the Navy College Aptitude Test will be interviewed and given thorough medical examinations early in 1968.

Approximately 1,700 young men from those remaining in competition will be selected to attend college next September to prepare for their naval service.

Farm Bureau To Undergo State Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe's office said Thursday it would look into a congressman's claim that operations of the Ohio Landmark Cooperative Inc. appeared to be "a con game."

Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, New York Democrat, investigating Farm Bureau cooperatives, asked Saxbe by letter to advise "about what action may be taken against the Ohio Landmark Cooperative and the Ohio Farm Bureau which controls it."

Told of the charges, an Ohio Farm Bureau spokesman in Columbus said "articles of confederation are on file and anybody can see those. There's no mystery about them."

Saxbe's office said any determination of fraud would be publicized and submitted to the Ashland County Prosecutor for appropriate action.

Resnick cited testimony by Mrs. Norma Williams of Ashland County that Landmark refused to redeem certificates distributed as dividends.

The congressman noted that federal law requires that at least 20 per cent of dividends must be distributed in cash and that the cooperative does not pay taxes on them. Resnick, in his letter, called refusal to redeem certificates a "con game."

He asserted that the Ashland Cooperative certificates appear "completely valueless regardless of age and not even redeemable upon death of the holder."

All special singers are welcome. Everyone is invited to attend and bring their friends, Rev. Baker said.

Valerie Percy's Slayer Still Sought by Police

KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP) — A year ago today, Valerie Percy, 21, stood smiling at her father's side, listening to him campaign for the U.S. Senate and devoting her time and talents to his success.

Two days later the 21-year-old blonde twin daughter of Charles Percy lay on her blood-soaked pillow, battered to death in the $200,000 mansion which sprawls on a bluff above Lake Michigan in Kenilworth, an elite community in Chicago's suburban North Shore area.

The man who crept up the circular stairs to kill Valerie Percy in the cold dawn of Sunday, Sept. 18, carried a glass cutter, a flashlight, a double-edge knife and an arrow-shaped piece of metal.

He plunged the knife into the girl's head and chest 10 times and the piece of metal crushed her skull.

Neither the killer nor his tools have been found.

"He left us very little, other than a body," says a stalemated detective who has lived with the unsolved murder file for a year.

The body and the unknown killer, whose identity was shrouded by darkness, were discovered by the victim's stepmother, Percy's second wife, Lorraine, 37.

She described being awakened by a moaning sound.

"I walked down the hall toward the girls' rooms. I saw a light coming from under Valerie's door. I called out, 'Val' and then I opened the door."

"Over her bed was a man. I was frozen for a moment. He was shining his flashlight in my face. Then I screamed."

Two days after her death, Valerie Percy was given a simple burial service. The chapel was adorned with pink roses, her favorite flower, and the body was cremated.

Percy took his family to a hideaway in Northern California, interrupting his campaign to unseat Democratic Sen. Paul Douglas. The blond, deep-voiced Republican hopeful returned to the campaign in late October.

"There is a time to be born, a time to die, a time to dance and a time to mourn, a time to keep silent and a time to speak. Now is the time to speak," Percy said at his initial political outing following the murder.

He was an overwhelming victor in November and attracted attention as a potential GOP presidential candidate.

In March, Robert Daley, chief of Kenilworth's 11-man police force in September when the village had the first murder in its history, was named village manager. His replacement was Edward Eggert, 42, who, with Sgt. William Sumner, handled the investigation from the beginning.

Eggert and Sumner discussed the case Tuesday.

"We have checked out 1,153 leads," Eggert said. "In all, we have personally talked to about 8,000 persons in 48 states and five foreign countries—France, India, England, Africa and Canada."

"There are still 53 leads open. The FBI has helped on out-of-state leads and the Chicago police still hold the four latent palm prints and the other physical evidence."

Sumner, Kenilworth's only policeman still assigned full time to the investigation, works with three members of the Illinois state police crime section.

"Each lead we get we try and figure out a motive but that's almost impossible," Sumner said, fingering a massive drawer of lead folders in the tiny office room in the Kenilworth Village Hall that was rented for the investigation and its gathering files.

"As long as there is a lead

Opportunity For College Given by USN

The test date for the 22nd annual national competitive NROTC examination has been set as Dec. 19. Parents and high school officials should remind eligible high school seniors and graduates to submit their applications before Nov. 17.

The regular NROTC program offers an outstanding opportunity for a young man to gain a regular commission while studying at one of the 52 NROTC colleges and universities. The Navy furnishes tuition fees, books, and uniforms, plus a subsistence allowance of $50 per month to NROTC midshipmen.

Each summer NROTC midshipmen go on interesting at-sea training periods. After completing his college course and all military requirements, an NROTC midshipman is commissioned as a regular officer in the U. S. Navy or Marine Corps and goes on active duty with the operating forces.

The program is available to male high school seniors and graduates who will have reached their 17th but not 21st birthday by July 1. Those who make a qualifying score on the Navy College Aptitude Test will be interviewed and given thorough medical examinations early in 1968.

Approximately 1,700 young men from those remaining in competition will be selected to attend college next September to prepare for their naval service.

The 1968 NROTC Bulletins of Information and application forms are available from local high school counselors and Navy Recruiting Stations, or from the Chief of Naval Personnel (Pers-B6411), Department of the Navy, Washington, D. C. 20370.

Farm Bureau To Undergo State Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Attorney Gen. William B. Saxbe's office said Thursday it would look into a congressman's claim that operations of the Ohio Landmark Cooperative Inc. appeared to be "a con game."

Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, New York Democrat, investigating Farm Bureau cooperatives, asked Saxbe by letter to advise "about what action may be taken against the Ohio Landmark Cooperative and the Ohio Farm Bureau which controls it."

Told of the charges, an Ohio Farm Bureau spokesman in Columbus said "articles of confederation are on file and anybody can see those. There's no mystery about them."

Saxbe's office said any determination of fraud would be publicized and submitted to the Ashland County Prosecutor for appropriate action.

Resnick cited testimony by Mrs. Norma Williams of Ashland County that Landmark refused to redeem certificates distributed as dividends.

The congressman noted that federal law requires that at least 20 per cent of dividends must be distributed in cash and that the cooperative does not pay taxes on them. Resnick, in his letter, called refusal to redeem certificates a "con game."

He asserted that the Ashland Cooperative certificates appear "completely valueless regardless of age and not even redeemable upon death of the holder."

All special singers are welcome. Everyone is invited to attend and bring their friends, Rev. Baker said.

The church is located on the Stoutsville Pike, about two miles from the fairgrounds.

Valerie Percy's Slayer Still Sought by Police

KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP) — A year ago today, Valerie Percy, 21, stood smiling at her father's side, listening to him campaign for the U.S. Senate and devoting her time and talents to his success.

Two days later the 21-year-old blonde twin daughter of Charles Percy lay on her blood-soaked pillow, battered to death in the $200,000 mansion which sprawls on a bluff above Lake Michigan in Kenilworth, an elite community in Chicago's suburban North Shore area.

The man who crept up the circular stairs to kill Valerie Percy in the cold dawn of Sunday, Sept. 18, carried a glass cutter, a flashlight, a double-edge knife and an arrow-shaped piece of metal.

He plunged the knife into the girl's head and chest 10 times and the piece of metal crushed her skull.

Neither the killer nor his tools have been found.

"He left us very little, other than a body," says a state-mated detective who has lived with the unsolved murder file for a year.

The body and the unknown killer, whose identity was shrouded by darkness, were discovered by the victim's stepmother, Percy's second wife, Lorraine, 37.

She described being awakened by a moaning sound.

"I walked down the hall toward the girls' rooms. I saw a light coming from under Valerie's door. I called out, 'Val' and then I opened the door."

"Over her bed was a man. I was frozen for a moment. He was shining his flashlight in my face. Then I screamed."

Two days after her death, Valerie Percy was given a simple burial service. The chapel was adorned with pink roses, her favorite flower, and the body was cremated.

Percy took his family to a hideaway in Northern California, interrupting his campaign to unseat Democratic Sen. Paul Douglas. The blond, deep-voiced Republican hopeful returned to the campaign in late October.

"There is a time to be born, a time to die, a time to dance and a time to mourn, a time to keep silent and a time to speak. Now is the time to speak," Percy said at his initial political outing following the murder.

He was an overwhelming victor in November and attracted attention as a potential GOP presidential candidate.

In March, Robert Daley, chief of Kenilworth's 11-man police force in September when the village had the first murder in its history, was named village manager. His replacement was Edward Eggert, 42, who, with Sgt. William Sumner, handled the investigation from the beginning.

Eggert and Sumner discussed the case Tuesday.

"We have checked out 1,153 leads," Eggert said. "In all, we have personally talked to about 8,000 persons in 18 states and five foreign countries—France, India, England, Africa and Canada."

"There are still 53 leads open. The FBI has helped on out-of-state leads and the Chicago police still hold the four latent palm prints and the other physical evidence."

Sumner, Kenilworth's only policeman still assigned full time to the investigation, works with three members of the Illinois state police crime section.

"Each lead we get we try and figure out a motive but that's almost impossible," Sumner said, fingering a massive drawer of lead folders in the tiny office room in the Kenilworth Village Hall that was rented for the investigation and its gathering files.

For Americans sailing home from far places there is no more moving sight than the Statue of Liberty silhouetted against a paling moon or luminous in the dawn. A close second is the reassuring bulk of the lightships, which, for 50 years, guided ships through Ambrose Channel from a position eight miles off the Roackaways.

Now the last of the Ambrose lightships has been relieved, her place usurped by an unromatic platform resting on four legs descending to the ocean floor.

Norman Rockwell Changes

By WILMA JACK
Springfield Republican
Written for Associated Press
STOCKBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Norman Rockwell, the folksy artist whose conception of the four freedoms inspired Americans in World War II, is pointing his talented brush toward things more controversial.

"Things have changed, and so have I," says the lanky patriarch remembered by most for his more than 360 Saturday Evening Post covers.

After 47 years of recording the foibles of the American public with painstaking accuracy and gentle humor Rockwell has switched to more topical themes.

"The kind of thing I did for years is through," the 73-year-old artist said softly as he folded his Twiggy frame into an antique chair.

Rockwell is feverishly behind schedule, has committed his talents for months ahead and is generally happy about the whole thing.

The shock of hair is silver, but his cavernous eyes are alive with enthusiasm.

"The public doesn't want my type of gentle humor anymore and the magazines don't want it; they're now full of articles on race problems, drug addiction, sex in the suburbs, mass murders and the like. I still get letters from people every day who say, 'Why don't you do those sweet old pictures like you used to do,' but that's just from older people, like myself," he chuckled.

"To be honest, I was getting fed up with the cute situations," he explained. "Since the Post, I've been getting some very exciting things to do." Among them he mentioned covers and special inside illustrations for Look and McCall's, such as astronauts and the Peace Corps, even a tongue-in-cheek pictorial comment on women's hair rollers and current hair styles.

He remains as American as red, white and blue, as traditional as Old World courtship and as aware as New World current events.

Recently Rockwell was in the Soviet Union for two weeks on a painting assignment of Russian schools. "The topic was more or less that in school, children were being taught to revere—I could almost say, worship—Lenin." The execution of the painting was one of the most difficult of his career, he said.

The illustration will appear on a double-page spread in an October issue of Look's look into the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

In his studio, a huge, elongated canvas sat on the easel waiting to be finished. It shows a portion of today's Main Street in quaint, picturesque Stockbridge, Mass., where the artist lives, and will be featured in a three-page foldout section in McCall's Christmas issue.

For the most part, Rockwell retains a photographically realistic style despite detractors who have sniffed that he is old-fashioned.

"Paintings are never any good when they're easy. The ones I have trouble with always come out best," he said. He feels his most significant or "most recurring work" is the four freedoms series created in 1943 during World War II.

Rockwell emphasizes the need for regular work hours. He naps after lunch, ceases work after dinner and tries to get at least eight hours of sleep.

Since he has made more than enough money, he says his compulsion to work is just "bad habit." Though he is selective with art job offers, he adds, "I have a lot more orders than I can do. I take on too many things—one job is only for some little drawings. I don't know why the hell I do it."

As if answering his own thoughts, he concluded, "Art is my life. I've never done anything else."

creates the impression that every farmer is becoming wealthier, although any operator of a family farm can quickly disabuse a city dweller of this belief.

Farm income per worker has risen sharply in this decade, although not this year, and now totals more than $4,500 a year, but fewer workers enjoy this rise each year.

In 1960, for example there were 5,458,000 farm workers in the United States and now there are 3,838,000. These figures emphasize not only the productivity of machines but also of the inroads mechanization has made into farm and rural life. Many of those workers abandoned farming for the city.

The production of those who remained rose sharply and now some of this productivity has depressed prices. Income to operators is down to an annual rate of $14.7 billion from $16.2 billion last year.

As a result, unrest on the farm is far more prevalent than it was a year ago, and some family farmers are directing their anger not only at the government, but at corporate farms as well.

Thus, this evolution of the farm from small to large, from hand labor to machine labor, and now perhaps from family to corporate operation is producing immediate economic and political repercussions.

Greater productivity does not mean that everything is wonderful down on the farm. All that corn is not necessarily gold.

An Export Needed at Home

by John Chamberlain

Well-travelled Latin Americans, reading the news about riots in Detroit and Newark, must think the poor of the U.S. are crazy. The slums of the bigger North American cities are bad enough, but, compared to the shanty-towns that cluster around such places as Lima in Peru or Rio de Janeiro in Brazil, they are middle class paradises. When it comes to justifying riots, it's evidently all in the point of view. But, granted that action is long overdue in North America to make our central cities more habitable than they are, the Latinos must be scratching their heads and wondering why there aren't some counterparts of Joseph Blatchford's Accion International at work in places like Watts, Harlem or the "central ward" of Newark, N. J.

In case you don't know about Joe Blatchford, he was an international tennis player who first went to South America to show off his backhand. Used to the atmosphere of country clubs, he was properly horrified when he first looked at a Brazilian favela, or shack community. He came home to the U. S. to raise the money and organize an action group to do something about poverty in the barrios and shanty-towns of the Latin lands. This was before there was any government - to - government peace corps.

After a halting start, Joe Blatchford crashed through with his Accion in Venezuela. Using money begged from foundations, corporations and individuals, his method has been to put just enough outside help into a barrio to get people working for themselves. He speaks of "seed funding" the various community action groups which he prods into being. Recently a forty-year-old mother of seven children, Senora Josefina de Hernandez, one of the self-help leaders of the Caracas Barrio Isaia Medina Angarita, or BIMA, decided all on her own to start a technical training center in her Caracas slum. She recruited volunteers for Sunday work, sent barrio inhabitants around to solicit funds and technical aid. The result, fortified by seed money from private companies and public agencies, is the BIMA Center, a two-story building in which training programs for electrical appliance repair, industrial sewing, baking and stenography are now available. The people of the barrio hired a professional crew to help with the advanced stages of building their center, but they poured the cement for the second floor by themselves in a single Sunday afternoon.

This sort of activity is one culmination of Joe Blatchford's missionary work. Now that the Venezuelan venture is an accepted part of the landscape, Joe Blatchford is moving south to Brazil. Here they have had some of the most fetid slums imaginable. One of these, the Rio de Janeiro shanty-town of Varginha, has packed 2,100 people into 378 shacks. Periodically the sewage-laden canals that border the Varginha favela have overflowed, spreading pestilence among the favelados and washing some of their shacks away. For his first work in Brazil, Joe Blatchford picked out the Varginha favela after surveying fifty slums.

The Blatchford method is slow but sure. Before making his first decisions, Joe Blatchford spent most of a year in Brazil. Then he brought in four North Americans, transferred from Accion in Venezuela. These, in turn, hired fourteen Brazilians after interviewing three hundred local candidates for field positions. The fourteen were sent to Venezuela for a basic course in community action.

When the agents of the Acco Comunitaria do Brazil, offshoot of Accion in Venezuela, moved into the Varginha slum, they encountered a quite familiar apathy. Only four people out of 2,100 Varginha inhabitants came to the first meeting. But at the third there were eight. Last May 140 dues paying members of the Varginha neighborhood improvement association chose its own board of directors by secret ballot. The board started its career by changing the name of the favela to Carlos Chagas Residential Park, recruited local people to repair the roads, built a new bridge, began construction of a school, invited the Brazilian Army to come in with technical courses for favela young men, and jogged the city of Rio to dredge the canals before the rainy season set in. Fifteen houses bordering the canals had to be moved; the favela people did it the way U. S. frontiersmen used to build barns, by community turn-out.

If this sort of thing can be done in Latin America, why can't it become standard procedure in North American slums. Have we no Joe Blatchfords among our stay-at-homes?

NEW YORK (AP) — The lusty, record crops of corn, wheat and soybeans expected from the nation's farms this year disguise what many farmers and heirs consider are some unwholesome and worrisome conditions.

Not everyone shares this view of course, for many feel that despite economic and political considerations, such enormous crops as a 1967 estimate of 4.7 billion bushels of corn are needed in a world fighting starvation.

American farmers note, however, that some farm prices are depressed this year and that incomes are lower than a year ago. And operators of family farms wonder about their future as corporations gobble up farm acreage.

Always at Anchor

For Americans sailing home from far places there is no more moving sight than the Statue of Liberty silhouetted against a paling moon or luminous in the dawn. A close second is the reassuring bulk of the lightships, which, for 50 years, guided ships through Ambrose Channel from a position eight miles off the Roackaways.

Now the last of the Ambrose lightships has been relieved, her place usurped by an unromantic platform resting on four legs descending to the ocean floor.

To those who love ships, there was always something sad about the lightship and its crew. Ships were made to sail the seas; the Ambrose never went anyplace. Always at anchor, hers was the duty to guard the safety of her sisters, some of whom were not too concerned about hers. It was a task that was both dangerous and dull.

Travelers on passing ships could sense the monotony of life abroad. It was easy to imagine the frustration of men who could only watch while others vanished over the horizon.

Norman Rockwell Changes

By WILMA JACK
Springfield Republican
Written for Associated Press
STOCKBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Norman Rockwell, the folksy artist whose conception of the four freedoms inspired Americans in World War II, is pointing his talented brush toward things more controversial.

"Things have changed, and so have I," says the lanky patriarch remembered by most for his more than 360 Saturday Evening Post covers.

After 47 years of recording the foibles of the American public with painstaking accuracy and gentle humor Rockwell has switched to more topical themes.

"The kind of thing I did for years is through," the 73-year-old artist said softly as he folded his Twiggy frame into an antique chair.

Rockwell is feverishly behind schedule, has committed his talents for months ahead and is generally happy about the whole thing.

The shock of hair is silver, but his cavernous eyes are alive with enthusiasm.

"The public doesn't want my type of gentle humor anymore and the magazines don't want it; they're now full of articles on race problems, drug addiction, sex in the suburbs, mass murders and the like. I still get letters from people every day who say, 'Why don't you do those sweet old pictures like you used to do, but that's just from older people, like myself,' he chuckled.

"To be honest, I was getting fed up with the cute situations," he explained. "Since the Post, I've been getting some very exciting things to do." Among them he mentioned covers and special inside illustrations for Look and McCall's, such as astronauts and the Peace Corps, even a tongue-in-cheek pictorial comment on women's hair rollers and current hair styles.

He remains as American as red, white and blue, as traditional as Old World courtesies and as aware as New World current events.

Recently Rockwell was in the Soviet Union for two weeks on a painting assignment of Russian schools. "The topic was more or less that in school, children were being taught to reverse—I could almost say, worship — Lenin." The execution of the painting was one of the most difficult of his career, he said. The illustration will appear on a double-page spread in an October issue of Look's look into the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

In his studio, a huge, elongated canvas sat on the easel waiting to be finished. It shows a portion of today's Main Street in quaint, picturesque Stockbridge, Mass., where the artist lives, and will be featured in a three-page foldout section in McCall's Christmas issue.

For the most part, Rockwell retains a photographically realistic style despite detractors who have sniffed that he is old-fashioned.

"Paintings are never any good when they're easy. The ones I have trouble with always come out best," he said. He feels his most significant or "most recurring work" is the four freedoms series created in 1943 during World War II.

Rockwell emphasizes the need for regular work hours. He naps after lunch, ceases work after dinner and tries to get at least eight hours of sleep.

Since he has made more than enough money, he says his compulsion to work is just "bad habit." Though he is selective with art job offers, he adds, "I have a lot more orders than I can do. I take on too many things—one job is only for some little drawings. I don't know why the hell I do it."

As if answering his own thoughts, he concluded, "Art is my life. I've never done anything else."

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The lusty, record crops of corn, wheat and soybeans expected from the nation's farms this year disguise what many farmers and heirs consider are some unwholesome and worrisome conditions.

Not everyone shares this view of course, for many feel that despite economic and political considerations, such enormous crops as a 1967 estimate of 4.7 billion bushels of corn are needed in a world fighting starvation.

American farmers note, however, that some farm prices are depressed this year and that incomes are lower than a year ago. And operators of family farms wonder about their future as corporations gobble up farm acreage.

The possibility that much of the nation's farm production during the next few decades will be by large corporations, whose stock might be traded on the big exchanges, is a prospect or a danger, depending on the view.

Already some crops are the product of factory farms, and some economists feel that the tendency will accelerate, that farming is a science or business more than an art or skill, and that it is as suited to the production line as cars or soft drinks or household appliances.

Visible evidence of this tendency is produced every day, especially in the automated chicken factories, where thousands of squawking birds enter the plant on hooks and leave packed in ice.

The more automation and mechanization, the greater the capital outlay needed. Already some family farms represent an investment of more than $100,000 and some authorities say this industrialization of the farm has just begun.

Not only is new machinery being devised regularly to pick crops, such as tomatoes, that once were considered too tender for handling by mechanical arms and conveyors, but new crops are being designed to suit the machines.

These include tomatoes with tough skins, and new varieties of peaches, strawberries, lettuce and other fruits and vegetables that either won't bruise or will grow in shapes and sizes suited to machine picking.

In the United States today there are no more farms than there were in 1876. And the total of less than 3.2 million steadily diminishes as production soars, proof that, broadly speaking, farms are both larger and more productive.

This fact plays some tricks with other farm statistics. It creates the impression that every farmer is becoming wealthier, although any operator of a family farm can quickly disabuse a city dweller of this belief.

Farm income per worker has risen sharply in this decade, although not this year, and now totals more than $4,500 a year, but fewer workers enjoy this rise each year.

In 1960, for example there were 5,458,000 farm workers in the United States and now there are 3,838,000. These figures emphasize not only the productivity of machines but also of the inroads mechanization has made into farm and rural life. Many of those workers abandoned farming for the city.

The production of those who remained rose sharply and now some of this productivity has depressed prices. Income to operators is down to an annual rate of $14.7 billion from $16.2 billion last year.

As a result, unrest on the farm is far more prevalent than it was a year ago, and some family farmers are directing their anger not only at the government, but at corporate farms as well.

Thus, this evolution of the farm from small to large, from hand labor to machine labor, and now perhaps from family to corporate operation is producing immediate economic and political repercussions.

Greater productivity does not mean that everything is wonderful down on the farm. All that corn is not necessarily gold.

An Export Needed at Home

By John Chamberlain

Well-travelled Latin Americans, reading the news about riots in Detroit and Newark, must think the poor of the U.S. are crazy. The slums of the big North American cities are bad enough, but, compared to the shanty-towns that cluster around such places as Lima in Peru or Rio de Janeiro in Brazil, they are middle class paradises. When it comes to justifying riots, it's evidently all in the point of view. But, granted that action is long overdue in North America to make our central cities more habitable than they are, the Latinos must be scratching their heads and wondering why there aren't some counterparts of Joseph Blatchford's Accion International at work in places like Watts, Harlem or the "central ward" of Newark, N. J.

In case you don't know about Joe Blatchford, he was an international tennis player who first went to South America to show off his backhand. Used to the atmosphere of country clubs, he was properly horrified when he first looked at a Brazilian favela, or shack community. He came home to the U. S. to raise the money and organize an action group to do something about poverty in the barrios and shanty-towns of the Latin lands. This was before there was any government - to - government peace corps.

After a halting start, Joe Blatchford crashed through with his Accion in Venezuela. Using money begged from foundations, corporations and individuals, his method has been to put just enough outside help into a barrio to get people working for themselves. He speaks of "seed funding" the various community action groups which he prods into being. Recently a forty-year-old mother of seven children, Senora Josefina de Hernandez, one of the self-help leaders of the Caracas Barrio Isaia Medina Angarita, or BIMA, decided all on her own to start a technical training center in her Caracas slum. She recruited volunteers for Sunday work, sent barrio inhabitants around to solicit funds and technical aid. The result, fortified by seed money from private companies and public agencies, is the BIMA Center, a two-story building in which training programs for electrical appliance repair, industrial sewing, baking and stenography are now available. The people of the barrio hired a professional crew to help with the advanced stages of building their center, but they poured the cement for the second floor by themselves in a single Sunday afternoon.

This sort of activity is one culmination of Joe Blatchford's missionary work. Now that the Venezuelan venture is an accepted part of the landscape, Joe Blatchford is moving south to Brazil. Here they have had some of the most fetid slums imaginable. One of these, the Rio de Janeiro shanty-town of Varginha, has packed 2,100 people into 378 shacks. Periodically the sewage-laden canals that border the Varginha favela have overflowed, spreading pestilence among the favelados and washing some of their shacks away. For his first work in Brazil, Joe Blatchford picked out the Varginha favela after surveying fifty slums.

The Blatchford method is slow but sure. Before making his first decisions, Joe Blatchford spent most of a year in Brazil. Then he brought in four North Americans, transferred from Accion in Venezuela. These, in turn, hired fourteen Brazilians after interviewing three hundred local candidates for field positions. The fourteen were sent to Venezuela for a basic course in community action.

When the agents of the Acao Comunitaria do Brazil, off shoot of Accion en Venezuela, moved into the Varginha slum, they encountered a quite familiar apathy. Only four people out of 2,100 Varginha inhabitants came to the first meeting. But at the third there were eight. Last May 140 dues paying members of the Varginha neighborhood improvement association chose its own board of directors by secret ballot. The board started its career by changing the name of the favela to Carlos Chagas Residential Park, recruited local people to repair the roads, built a new bridge, began construction the sitar India-born Ravi Shankar can evoke harmony and dissonance that astound the ear.

His appearance last week on ABC's "Hollywood Palace" added to the clamor over soft-spoken, strong-willed Shankar, of whom Life magazine proclaimed, "His Sitar Sound Rocks the U.S." The musician is getting what appears to be a saturation campaign, including dates at the Monterey Folk Festival, Hollywood Bowl, Expo 67 and this week at Philharmonic Hall in New York's Lincoln Center.

The rage over Ravi's sagas—free-swinging improvisations that can last two or three hours—was started two years ago when Beatle George Harrison became enamored with the guitar sound. He made a pilgrim's age to India to study under Shankar, and Indian tones began seeping into the Beatle numbers.

This caused Shankar to become elevated to minor sainthood in pop music. Teenyboppers, flower children and other juvenile types began appearing at Shankar's American concerts, bestowing on him the homage usually reserved for guitar plunkers in tight pants.

The attention alternately pleases and appalls Shankar. "I see no harm in using the guitar for pop music," he explained. "It is a versatile instrument that can be used for many things, just as the guitar can be played by everyone from Segovia to folk singers."

"But I would hate to see the guitar used solely to produce a pop sound. That is why in my concerts I stress the fact that it can be used for the classical form."

He may or may not be getting the message across to his most devoted followers, the hippies. They apparently enjoy his music for its fantasmagorical sound, rather than its classical quality.

"Often during the performance they will light up—and usually it is not tobacco. Then I must stop and announce that smoking is not allowed. I only want them to give me a chance to present my music properly, and for that I must have a couple of hours of sobriety."

Ravi Shankar is a 5-foot-3 man of 47 with curly black hair and a broad, brown face with deep, dark-rimmed eyes. He is enormously disciplined and can sit cross-legged playing the four-foot guitar for three uninterrupted hours. Both his religious training and his lengthy prevent his being overwhelmed by his newfound fame.

Among his other scores: the "Pather Panchali" films of India's Satyajit Ray, "Alice in Wonderland" for British television, the forthcoming "Chappaqua" of Conrad Rooks.

Wedding Rites Solemnized In Hallsville Church

MRS. ROGER EUGENE CUNION

The Methodist Church in Hallsville was the setting of the wedding of Miss Sandra Lee Zeigler to Roger Eugene Cunion, Saturday evening, Sept. 2. The Rev. Jack Glick solemnized the wedding vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dana L. Zeigler, Route 2, Kingston, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cunion, Zanesville.

A recital of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Tom Smith, organist from Circleville. Sherry Knisley of Kingsville sang, "I Love Thee," "In My Garden," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a floor length sheath gown of Bourdeaux lace and crepe. The empire bodice was highlighted by a scalloped neckline and long tapering lace sleeves. Her removable Camelot train was caught by bows at the shoulders. Her imported illusion veil was held by a plateau accented by pearl and crystal droplets. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds and miniature carnations on her white Bible.

Miss Pamela Sharp of Chillicothe was maid of honor. The bride's sister, Lisa Zeigler, was junior bridesmaid, and Miss Mary Immell and Miss Debby Downs were bridesmaids. Laura Strausbaugh was flower girl.

The attendants were attired in floor-length sheath gowns of aqua chiffon with free flowing backs, caught at the shoulders by velvet bows. Each also wore a matching plateau illusion veil. The bridesmaids carried nosegays of yellow rosebuds and carnations. The flower girl wore a yellow floor-length chiffon gown with a yellow bow as her headpiece.

Dennis Zeigler, brother of the bride, served as best man. Seating the guests were Bernard Kuhn, Zanesville, Robert, Tom, and David Beyer, of Logan.

A reception in the church basement immediately followed the ceremony. Mrs. Marvin Jones was hostess. Assisting were the Misses Connie and Toni Downs, Mrs. Joe Huhn, Mrs. Gary Courtright, Miss Harriett Bookwalter, and Miss Pam Benson.

The bride, a graduate of Centralia High School is a senior at the College of Education, majoring in English at Ohio University, Athens.

Mr. Cunion was graduated from Rosecrans High School in Zanesville and is now employed as assistant manager of Economy Saving and Loan Co. in Logan. He served in the U. S. Marines for four years.

For a honeymoon trip, the couple visited Myrtle and Virginia Beaches and Williamsburg, Va. They are now residing at 567½ Pettery St. in Logan.

Out-of-town guests were from Zanesville, Buffalo, N. Y., Logan, Akron, Columbus, Bainbridge, Cambridge and Circleville.

the sitar India-born Ravi Shankar can evoke harmony and dissonance that astound the ear.

His appearance last week on ABC's "Hollywood Palace" added to the clamor over soft-spoken, strong-willed Shankar, of whom Life magazine proclaimed, "His Sitar Sound Rocks the U.S." The musician is getting what appears to be a saturation campaign, including dates at the Monterey Folk Festival, Hollywood Bowl, Expo 67 and this week at Philharmonic Hall in New York's Lincoln Center.

The rage over Ravi's sagas—free-swinging improvisations that can last two or three hours—was started two years ago when Beatle George Harrison became enamored with the guitar sound. He made a pilgrimage to India to study under Shankar, and Indian tones began seeping into the Beatle numbers.

This caused Shankar to become elevated to minor sainthood in pop music. Teenyboppers, flower children and other juvenile types began appearing at Shankar's American concerts, bestowing on him the homage usually reserved for guitar plunkers in tight pants.

The attention alternately pleases and appalls Shankar.

"I see no harm in using the guitar for pop music," he explained. "It is a versatile instrument that can be used for many things, just as the guitar can be played by everyone from Segovia to folk singers."

"But I would hate to see the guitar used solely to produce a pop sound. That is why in my concerts I stress the fact that it can be used for the classical form."

He may or may not be getting the message across to his most devoted followers, the hippies. They apparently enjoy his music for its fantasmagorical sound, rather than its classical quality.

"I love hippies," Shankar declared outright. "I love them not because they are admirers of my music, but because of their philosophy, their awareness. But one thing I do not approve: their use of drugs."

Garden Gossip

The area where Little Walnut angles off from Route 23 should be known as Garden Village. First of all there is Mrs. Clyde Hoover with her fabulous collection of perennials. Truthfully we never visited beyond this garden because there was so much to see there.

But actually there are many fine gardeners around Mrs. Hoover. One such person is Mrs. Raymond Stone who has cabages of great size and staked tomatoes that are second to none. These tomatoes grow in soil where springs give plenty of moisture. And they are tall and green and heavy with fruit.

And there are the Lawrence Wrights who, among other wonderful plants, have a wedding bell tree. This is a tender perennial and must be taken indoors each winter. Mrs. Wright puts it under her house. (The Wrights do not have a cellar) near a warm register.

We once checked with the Brooklyn Botanical Garden as well as the St. Louis Botanical Garden and both authorities gave the Latin name of this plant as Datura, suaveolens.

The Wrights also have a Madonna lily blooming now. It was an Easter gift and when the bloom was over Mrs. Wright planted it. Lo and Behold! It bloomed again.

The Madonna lily is of course, very fragrant. Close to it are a dozen or so tuberose and not far away is the wedding bell tree. The mixture of these pleasing aromas in the evening is delightful, Mrs. Wright says.

Another eye-catching planting in the Little Walnut area was a corner planting of annuals near a mailbox. We did not have a chance to check whose mailbox it was. But we are heart and soul in favor of corner plantings.

A corner planting is in general much to be preferred to, say, a circular flower bed in the middle of the lawn. In the first place it is more practical and easier for the man who mows the grass. In the second place it is generally conceded that an uncluttered lawn area is much to be desired.

A circular bed of brightly blooming flowers clutter? Well not exactly but a wide sweep of green grass is a thing of beauty in itself.

True! Post-Victorians considered circular flowerbeds embellishing the lawn as high style. And if you do live in a Victorian style home a round flower bed is definitely in keeping with your architecture.

Otherwise give thought to a bright corner of annuals. The Frank Barnhill Jr.s., at 106 Park St. have such a corner and it is delightful.

And the garden editor wants to admonish gardeners to take care lest they overdo the business of garden ornaments. If your flowers are bright and gay put your pink flamingo in the cellar for the time being. That flamingo will only compete with your flowers not add beauty or interest.

Garden ornaments frequently add interest to an all green planting. A beautiful fountain should be placed where it has a backdrop of evergreens. As we say, ornaments only compete and rarely add any beauty to a colorful planting of flowers.

Mrs. William Defenbaugh's dahlias are thriving on the north side of her house and blooming like made. She lives at 830 Atwater.

The Defenbaugh dahlias certainly do not get full sun. Dahlia growers often shade some varieties like Gerrie Hoek so that the sun will not fade the colors.

Stella Curtin, 124 E. Union, has one of the most beautiful dahlia plants I ever saw. It's lavender of course and a cactus type. Actually the flowers are white with a wide edging of lavender.

In Mrs. Curtin's flower border was also a double golden flower belonging to the sunflower family. It is a perennial with a rather coarse leaf and valuable to provide yellow in a late garden after the daylilies are spent.

This plant was sold under the name of "hardy dahlia" several years ago. The flower does indeed look like a small dahlia. Somebody arrived at the County Fair Flower Show and wanted to enter this flower in the dahlia class. The classification committee rejected it as a dahlia. But I am certain the exhibitor had purchased this plant under the name of hardy dahlia and sincerely thought it was a variety of dahlia.

One of the guests at the Labor Day Water Pageant was Harry Timmons. We were most honored that Harry Timmons was a visitor. He has just built a 3-acre pond on Shoemaker Road. It does not have water in it yet because the rains have been so few, but we predict it will be one of the most beautiful ponds in the county when it is filled. It is free form in shape and to the south and west are trees and much wild beauty.

Mrs. Robert Scherer, 610 Garden Parkway, has feather type celosia blooming to the south of her house. As we passed we glimpsed several different colors.

There's an excellent display of marigolds at the George Foresman place on S. Court St.

Natibida and Shirley Moreno brought over the most beautiful tomatoes and green peppers last week. We have not seen this garden, but from the vegetables we have enjoyed from it it's a most productive garden.

Most impressive are the folks who carefully tend their vegetable gardens this late in the season. Wenrich Stuckey is one such gardener. Rows are straight and weedless. Glads are blooming as well as annuals like zinnias. If my eyes did not deceive me as I drove past there's even a planting of late peas.

Mrs. Fred Duncan, 133 Pinckney St., has a crepe myrtle in bloom. These are rare in this area although if planted in a protected place seem to live for years.

At our place we had two crepe myrtles and in the 15 years we harbored them we only had one season of bloom. They die down to the roots each winter. Mine were absolutely the last thing in spring to sprout.

Mrs. Vaughan Hill, 128 E.

Dunlap Home Near Williamsport Occupied by Third Generation

Mrs. Clifford Lee Bowsher spent many a happy hour visiting her grandparents who were Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dunlap of the Williamsport Community.

And now she lives in the very house where she had so much fun as a child. And her own little girl and boy are finding life here just as interesting and delightful as she did.

The Bowser house is on Route 22 just before you come into Williamsport. There are big maple trees and lots of shade and a high picket fence with urn-like ornaments on the gateposts. The attractive white house is colonial in feeling.

The place is so pleasant that picnickers often stop in front of it to have a picnic lunch in the shade of the trees that grow between the road and the picket fence. And Shirley Bowser says they rarely if ever leave any litter.

The garden editor believes it because this country home is so pleasant and attractive that even transients want to take special care of it.

Shirley Bowser says she remembers with delight the many flowers her grandparents had. They just grew everywhere.

And after she married and came to live in her grandparents' house she wished to continue the loved tradition. So she had flowers everywhere too.

But she had to admit that growing flowers everywhere can take not a major part of your time but all of it. But if she curtailed her flower growing truly they cannot be missed. There are lovely splashes of flowers and accents of color just the right places.

The reddest of red petunias grow in the front window boxes. And on the front stoop there is

Union, has a planting of sultanias and coleus which I consider nothing short of dramatic. Under a big magnolia, Soulangeanas Mrs. Hill has a thick carpet of red and salmon sultanias interplanted with bright coleus of many hues. The effect is stunning.

Both these plants need considerable moisture and do well in shade. The magnolia provides the shade and I assume the Hills provide the moisture.

Mrs. Hill says her magnolia is supremely beautiful in spring. It looks like a purple umbrella and lots of people go slowly past to get a really good look at it.

The Dick Robinsons of Reber Ave. are about to install an automatic water system for their big garden.

It's great fun to see flowers in real life which before you have only seen in pictures. I nursed a so-called houseplant named Jacobinia from January to September and then suddenly it bloomed. It's just darling. It has a coral pink plume like blossom.

Carl Webb at the south entrance of Tarlton has a great number of beautiful flowers we have been told.

Mrs. Paul Congrove on Route 22 has had fine luck with dahlias this year. I was told she had over 100 hills.

Mrs. Carl Martin, Route 1, Circleville, has dahlias dinner plate size. She plans to cure a blossom with cornmeal and borax and have it all winter.

TIME FOR A REST — Mrs. Clifford Bowsher and her son take time out for a breather in front of the flower garden where this successful posy grower mixes roses with many other sorts of annuals and perennials. Mrs. Bowsher has about 20 roses. Her young son is not only a good gardener, but an entertaining conversationalist.

a big old earthenware container with vines and geraniums as red as the window box petunias.

Shirley Bowser has a new location for her vegetable garden and there are flowers mixed with the vegetables. Until this year Shirley's vegetables shared a common well with the Bowser cattle and along about this time when rains were few and days were hot the water all went to the cattle.

Maxine Horn Reveals Theory Of Petunia Care

Travelers entering Tarlton from the south cannot help but notice the petunia planting at the Harold Horn's just before one enters the little city.

From early spring until now the blossoms have been outstanding. Maxine Horn does have her own theories about petunia care.

In the first place she buys good hybrid plants.

When first transplanted the petunias are given a good garden fertilizer.

During dry weather they are kept well watered.

And Maxine believes that nipping off the spent flowers so that seeds cannot form is of utmost importance.

Lots of petunias are leggy by this time of year and flowers come only at the top of the plant. But Mrs. Horn says if a gardener will take the trouble to nip off the flowers so that seed pods cannot form she will be well rewarded by constant bloom and bushy plants.

Lee Bowser Jr., who escorted the garden editor around was pretty upset to find an infestation of gourd bugs, big, little and muddled. And it was he who set to work spraying them when his mother brought out the aerosol spray. He worked with zeal and when we later telephoned to give Shirley Bowser another spray remedy she reported that the bugs had expired.

Shirley Bowser has a room off the garage opening onto the vegetable garden. It is here she keeps her chemicals, her spraying equipment and her garden tools.

Shirley cannot bear for things to go to waste so she freezes the surplus.

The real flower garden is between the driveway and the picket fence that separates the lawn from the barnyard. She grows about 20 hybrid tea roses here and although she says she has lots to learn about rose-growing her plants were blooming and in tip top condition.

Her flower garden is brimming with color for she mixes her hybrid teas with perennials and annuals. Red petunias, red geraniums and white alyssum edged this bed. This is where her hollyhocks grow and her delphinium (which she especially loves) and her iris and daylilies and coral bells.

WE ASKED to what she attributed her luck with difficult delphinium and she credited Mrs. Fred Corcoran for starting her out with plants of vigor and excellence. This could be—for Mrs. Corcoran is one of the county's few really successful delphinium growers.

Shirley Bowser's flowering season starts with tulips. Then along come the annuals and roses. Last of all the chrysanthemums bloom. We could see big healthy mum plants in many places these will indeed give drifts of autumn color.

Mrs. Bowser is a gardener who believes in container and planter gardening. When the new room is built on the back of the house (it's to have a mud closet) there will be a brick planter the entire length of the new room.

No, Shirley does not belong to a garden club.

She scarcely ever picks flowers for her own home. She just loves them and grows them for fun and of course to add bright accents to the lovely spacious lawn.

Bad Infestation of Scab Hits Firethorn, Viburnum

Ohio's beautiful pyracantha bushes have been pestered with scab this season. Manifestation of scab appears in the browning and shriveling of the lovely orange berries which give this shrub such popularity.

Mrs. Dorsey Bumgarner is just one of various pyracantha lovers who discovered scab taking over.

George Hamrick, county agent, identified the trouble early this year for her. She sprayed for scab, but the spray apparently was not affecting a cure.

At the recent convention of Ohio Assn. of Garden Clubs, Mrs. Bumgarner learned more about spraying for scab.

SCAB has hit pyracantha all over this area including some of the marvelous specimens at the Ohio State University campus.

Scab can be deterred. But if it is manifesting itself in a dangerous way one should spray not once, but four times a year.

Mrs. Bumgarner used a good all purpose rose spray that included sulphur, captan and mildex. Then she added Malathion and ferbam for good measure.

When Mrs. Bumgarner told the experts at the convention what she had used they told her it should have been satisfactory. However this spray should have been applied when leaves first started to push out. Pyracantha leaves stay on all winter and only drop off when new leaves push them off. The plant should be sprayed again just when flowers begin to appear. Another spray should be applied when the flowers are gone and the early swelling (which later will be the berries) is noticed. A fourth and last spray should be given when berries are formed and are about half grown and still green.

"This" says Mrs. Bumgarner, "Will do the job".

Mrs. Bumgarner admitted the cure sounded worse than the ailment, "but if you have a treasured pyracantha that has given you pleasure for several years it will be worth the effort" she assured the garden editor.

The only optimistic note in Mrs. Bumgarner's report was that the strange weather this spring had probably brought on the infestation of scab. Nobody is looking for a repeat of a cold wet spring followed by intense heat plus cool, dry weeks in July and August.

Scab has also been working on evergreens, eunonymous, lilacs and even viburnums.

It may be some years before scab will return in such epidemic proportions, but be ready to attack it with vim if there have been signs of it on your ornamentals this past season.

Garden Gossip

The area where Little Walnut angles off from Route 23 should be known as Garden Village. First of all there is Mrs. Clyde Hoover with her fabulous collection of perennials. Truthfully we never visited beyond this garden because there was so much to see there.

But actually there are many fine gardeners around Mrs. Hoover. One such person is Mrs. Raymond Stone who has cabages of great size and staked tomatoes that are second to none. These tomatoes grow in soil where springs give plenty of moisture. And they are tall and green and heavy with fruit.

And there are the Lawrence Wrights who, among other wonderful plants, have a wedding bell tree. This is a tender perennial and must be taken indoors each winter. Mrs. Wright puts it under her house. (The Wrights do not have a cellar near a warm register.)

We once checked with the Brooklyn Botanical Garden as well as the St. Louis Botanical Garden and both authorities gave the Latin name of this plant as Datura, suaveolens.

The Wrights also have a Madonna lily blooming now. It was an Easter gift and when the bloom was over Mrs. Wright planted it. Lo and Behold! It bloomed again.

The Madonna lily is of course, very fragrant. Close to it are a dozen or so tuberoses and not far away is the wedding bell tree. The mixture of these pleasing aromas in the evening is delightful, Mrs. Wright says.

Another eye-catching planting in the Little Walnut area was a corner planting of annuals near a mailbox. We did not have a chance to check whose mailbox it was. But we are heart and soul in favor of corner plantings.

A corner planting is in general much to be preferred to, say, a circular flower bed in the middle of the lawn. In the first place it is more practical and easier for the man who mows the grass. In the second place it is generally conceded that an uncluttered lawn area is much to be desired.

A circular bed of brightly blooming flowers clutter? Well not exactly but a wide sweep of green grass is a thing of beauty in itself.

True! Post-Victorians considered circular flowerbeds embellishing the lawn as high style. And if you do live in a Victorian style home a round flower bed is definitely in keeping with your architecture.

Otherwise give thought to a bright corner of annuals. The Frank Barnhill Jr., at 106 Park St. have such a corner and it is delightful.

And the garden editor wants to admonish gardeners to take care lest they overdo the business of garden ornaments. If your flowers are bright and gay put your pink flamingo in the cellar for the time being. That flamingo will only compete with your flowers not add beauty or interest.

Garden ornaments frequently add interest to an all green planting. A beautiful fountain should be placed where it has a backdrop of evergreens. As we say, ornaments only compete and rarely add any beauty to a colorful planting of flowers.

Mrs. William Defenbaugh's dahlias are thriving on the north side of her house and blooming like made. She lives at 830 Atwater.

The Defenbaugh dahlias certainly do not get full sun. Dahlia growers often shade some varieties like Gerrie Hoek so that the sun will not fade the colors.

Stella Curtin, 124 E. Union, has one of the most beautiful dahlia plants I ever saw. It's lavender of course and a cactus type. Actually the flowers are white with a wide edging of lavender.

In Mrs. Curtin's flower border was also a double golden flower belonging to the sunflower family. It is a perennial with a rather coarse leaf and valuable to provide yellow in a late garden after the dailies are spent.

This plant was sold under the name of "hardy dahlia" several years ago. The flower does indeed look like a small dahlia. Somebody arrived at the County Fair Flower Show and wanted to enter this flower in the dahlia class. The classification committee rejected it as a dahlia. But I am certain the exhibitor had purchased this plant under the name of hardy dahlia and sincerely thought it was a variety of dahlia.

One of the guests at the Labor Day Water Pageant was Harry Timmons. We were most honored that Harry Timmons was a visitor. He has just built a 3-acre pond on Shoemaker Road. It does not have water in it yet because the rains have been so few, but we predict it will be one of the most beautiful ponds in the county when it is filled. It is free form in shape and to the south and west are trees and much wild beauty.

Mrs. Robert Scherer, 610 Garden Parkway, has feather type celosia blooming to the south of her house. As we passed we glimpsed several different colors.

There's an excellent display of marigolds at the George Foreman place on S. Court St.

Natibida and Shirley Moreno brought over the most beautiful tomatoes and green peppers last week. We have not seen this garden, but from the vegetables we have enjoyed from it it's a most productive garden.

Most impressive are the folks who carefully tend their vegetable gardens this late in the season. Wenrich Stuckey is one such gardener. Rows are straight and weedless. Glads are blooming as well as annuals like zinnias. If my eyes did not deceive me as I drove past there's even a planting of late peas.

Mrs. Fred Duncan, 133 Pinckney St., has a crepe myrtle in bloom. These are rare in this area although if planted in a protected place seem to live for years.

At our place we had two crepe myrtles and in the 15 years we harbored them we only had one season of bloom. They die down to the roots each winter. Mine were absolutely the last thing in spring to sprout.

Mrs. Vaughan Hill, 128 E.

Dunlap Home Near Williamsport Occupied by Third Generation

Mrs. Clifford Lee Bowsher spent many a happy hour visiting her grandparents who were Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dunlap of the Williamsport Community.

And now she lives in the very house where she had so much fun as a child. And her own little girl and boy are finding life here just as interesting and delightful as she did.

The Bowsher house is on Route 22 just before you come into Williamsport. There are big maple trees and lots of shade and a high picket fence with urn-like ornaments on the gateposts. The attractive white house is colonial in feeling.

The place is so pleasant that picnickers often stop in front of it to have a picnic lunch in the shade of the trees that grow between the road and the picket fence. And Shirley Bowsher says they rarely if ever leave any litter.

The garden editor believes its because this country home is so pleasant and attractive that even transients want to take special care of it.

Shirley Bowsher says she remembers with delight the many flowers her grandparents had. They just grew everywhere.

And after she married and came to live in her grandparents' house she wished to continue the loved tradition. So she had flowers everywhere too.

But she had to admit that growing flowers everywhere can take not a major part of your time but all of it. But if she curtailed her flower growing truly they cannot be missed. There are lovely splashes of flowers and accents of color just the right places.

The reddest of red petunias grow in the front window boxes. And on the front stoop there is

Union, has a planting of sultanias and coleus which I consider nothing short of dramatic. Under a big magnolia, Soulangean Mrs. Hill has a thick carpet of red and salmon sultanias interplanted with bright coleus of many hues. The effect is stunning.

Both these plants need considerable moisture and do well in shade. The magnolia provides the shade and I assume the Hills provide the moisture.

Mrs. Hill says her magnolia is supremely beautiful in spring. It looks like a purple umbrella and lots of people go slowly past to get a really good look at it.

The Dick Robinsons of Reber Ave. are about to install an automatic water system for their big garden.

It's great fun to see flowers in real life which before you have only seen in pictures. I nursed a so-called houseplant named Jacobinia from January to September and then suddenly it bloomed. It's just darling. It has a coral pink plume like blossom.

Carl Webb at the south entrance of Tarlton has a great number of beautiful flowers we have been told.

Mrs. Paul Congrove on Route 22 has had fine luck with dahlias this year. I was told she had over 100 hills.

Mrs. Carl Martin, Route 1, Circleville, has dahlias dinner plate size. She plans to cure a blossom with cornmeal and borax and have it all winter.

TIME FOR A REST — Mrs. Clifford Bowsher and her son take time out for a breather in front of the flower garden where this successful posy grower mixes roses with many other sorts of annuals and perennials. Mrs. Bowsher has about 20 roses. Her young son is not only a good gardener, but an entertaining conversationalist.

a big old earthenware container with vines and geraniums as red as the window box petunias.

Shirley Bowsher has a new location for her vegetable garden and there are flowers mixed with the vegetables. Until this year Shirley's vegetables shared a common well with the Bowsher cattle and along about this time when rains were few and days were hot the water all went to the cattle.

Maxine Horn Reveals Theory Of Petunia Care

Travelers entering Tarlton from the south cannot help but notice the petunia planting at the Harold Horn's just before one enters the little city.

From early spring until now the blossoms have been outstanding. Maxine Horn does have her own theories about petunia care.

In the first place she buys good hybrid plants.

When first transplanted the petunias are given a good garden fertilizer.

DURING dry weather they are kept well watered.

And Maxine believes that nipping off the spent flowers so that seeds cannot form is of utmost importance.

Lots of petunias are leggy by this time of year and flowers come only at the top of the plant. But Mrs. Horn says if a gardener will take the trouble to nip off the flowers so that seed pods cannot form she will be well rewarded by constant bloom and bushy plants.

Lee Bowsher Jr., who escorted the garden editor around was pretty upset to find an infestation of gourd bugs, big, little and muddledized. And it was he who set to work spraying them when his mother brought out the aerosol spray. He worked with zeal and when we later telephoned to give Shirley Bowsher another spray remedy she reported that the bugs had expired.

Shirley Bowsher has a room off the garage opening onto the vegetable garden. It is here she keeps her chemicals, her spraying equipment and her garden tools.

Shirley cannot bear for things to go to waste so she freezes the surplus.

The real flower garden is between the driveway and the picket fence that separates the lawn from the barnyard. She grows about 20 hybrid tea roses here and although she says she has lots to learn about rose-growing her plants were blooming and in tip top condition.

Her flower garden is brimming with color for she mixes her hybrid teas with perennials and annuals. Red petunias, red geraniums and white alyssum edged this bed. This is where her hollyhocks grow and her delphinium (which she especially loves) and her iris and day-lilies and coral bells.

WE ASKED to what she attributed her luck with difficult delphinium and she credited Mrs. Fred Corcoran for starting her out with plants of vigor and excellence. This could be—for Mrs. Corcoran is one of the county's few really successful delphinium growers.

Shirley Bowsher's flowering season starts with tulips. Then along come the annuals and roses. Last of all the chrysanthemums bloom. We could see big healthy mum plants in many places these will indeed give drifts of autumn color.

Mrs. Bowsher is a gardener who believes in container and planter gardening. When the new room is built on the back of the house (it's to have a mud closet) there will be a brick planter the entire length of the new room.

No, Shirley does not belong to a garden club.

She scarcely ever picks flowers for her own home. She just loves them and grows them for fun and of course to add bright accents to the lovely spacious lawn.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Forgiving Husband Deserves a Break

DEAR ABBY: I am 49 and my wife is 45. We have five wonderful children, are quite well-to-do, and live in a lovely large home. Last summer we met a handsome lieutenant in church and invited him for dinner. Being a lonely bachelor, he soon became a regular dinner guest. Then week-ends. Three months ago he left the navy and decided to locate in Norfolk permanently, so we invited him to live with us until he became established. Well, you know the rest. By the time I caught on, things had gone too far.

In order to save our marriage, I sought counsel from our pastor and tried to reason with my wife, who insisted all along that the lieutenant was only a "friend" whom she loved "like a son." (He is 29!) Meanwhile he had ingratiated himself with our children, buying them gifts, etc. (He has money.)

Finally, we had a showdown, and I threw the lieutenant out of our home. Now my wife will have nothing whatsoever to do with me. She has turned "his" room into a "shrine." She sleeps on his bed and has pictures of him all over. She writes to him daily. (He left town.) I think they are planning something.

Abby, I still love my wife. I have stayed away from lawyers because I don't want a divorce, but no man should be expected to put up with this. What do you suggest?

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: I suggest you see a lawyer, and tell him you don't want a divorce. In the meantime take your cues from your lawyer and play a waiting game.

Your wife may regain her senses. And the lieutenant may regain his, too. I'D BET against his taking on a 45-year-old mother of five permanently.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I received an "invitation" to a surprise party, honoring another couple on their 12th wedding anniversary. It was to be held at a supper club, and on the bottom was written, "If you care to join us at your own expense, please call—(phone number) RSVP."

The phone number happened to be the daughter of the "honored couple." She's no kid. She's a married woman. I have never heard of an invitation to a party at "one's own expense."

On MY 25th wedding anniversary, I had an open house, and I invited guests at MY expense.

Would you call this "join us at your own expense" type invitation proper? Or am I an old fuddy duddy?

AMAZED

DEAR AMAZED: When one is "invited" to a "party" at his own expense, he is not a guest, he's a donor.

DEAR ABBY: My problem will probably sound like it's from a 6-year-old, but I am a married woman with two children. I have a terrible fear of dentists. I keep making appointments and canceling them at the last minute because of this awful fear.

I begged my dentist to put me to sleep for any dental work he has to do, but he says he can't put me to sleep just to fill a few cavities.

He gave me four needles once, and I still feel the pain. Every time he comes near me with that drill I freeze up.

I have nice teeth, but I know I won't have them long if I don't get over this fear. Do you have any ideas?

PETRIFIED

DEAR PETRIFIED: Your dentist obviously is not trained in therapeutic hypnosis or he surely would have suggested it for you. Ask him to refer you to a dentist who is. I'm sure your dentist won't mind losing a patient who has consistently canceled out at the last minute.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — At most certainly the present drag-along condition of the war in Vietnam can't continue indefinitely with the 1968 presidential election coming up. President Johnson can't afford to let it go on like that if he hopes for a second term, and no one doubts he does. One of the byproducts of the war is a drag along condition in Congress.

From the time it opened shop last January, Congress has been grumbling and stalling, big on talk, short on performance. And a lot of the past eight months in Congress has been used, particularly by senators, in finding fault with the war.

The mood there would have been different if Johnson had been able to devote his energies to his programs and the lawmakers instead of having to split his attention among Congress, the war, and the city riots.

No one knows better than Johnson the advantage for him in next year's election campaign if he could point back to a shining record with Congress in 1967. The last impressive record there was in 1965.

But the war haunts him. The doves who have no stomach for the war and the hawks who want a tougher one are both on his back. And, unless there is a change, he will still be in the middle, a wide pen target, all through the 1968 campaign.

He's already had a taste of what's to come from at least two Republican presidential prospects, both governors: Ronald Reagan of California and George Romney of Michigan.

Romney, who says he thinks the presidential candidate with the best hope for victory is the one who talks peace, has developed a great distaste for the war. Reagan wants the war intensified to "win as quickly as possible."

Since the worst thing that could happen to Johnson in 1968 would be a continuance of the present stalemate, it will be to his interest to try to get peace negotiations started or to try to step up the war to break North Vietnam's back.

Yet, at this moment the Johnson Administration gives the impression of being baffled about how to do more in Vietnam or what to do next aside from the obvious things which everyone, including the North Vietnamese, knows it doesn't want to do.

It could finish North Vietnam in nothing flat, wiping it off the map, with nuclear bombs. Or, with conventional bombs, it could hit and destroy the centers of population, which is the only way North Vietnam can be crushed, according to Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense.

But if nuclear bombs were used, the Soviet Union, which is also a nuclear power, or Red China, or both, might feel compelled to get into the war. Besides, for the United States to use nuclear bombs against such a primitive people as the North Vietnamese would nauseate the world.

By James Marlow

The world would be equally nauseated, and the Soviets and Chinese might feel compelled to get in, if the population centers were destroyed with ordinary bombs.

Not using either short-cut to victory has been an obvious, self-imposed restriction on the United States from the beginning. So its problem has been to find some other way to win, and nothing has worked yet. There's nothing new about it.

What is new is the administration's attitude expressed to a Senate subcommittee by McNamara, who certainly was speaking for Johnson, too. He admitted there were 57 targets which the Joint Chiefs of Staff recommended be bombed but which the Johnson Administration so far had not permitted to be hit.

But, McNamara said, bombing them will not materially shorten the war for there is nothing to indicate North Vietnam can be bombed into wanting an end to the war. What then can be done?

Apparently the administration believes the war will have to be won with ground fighting and the kind of bombing that has been done. McNamara said the air strikes are simply a supplement, not a substitute for, ground action.

With this admission the administration concedes it's in a dilemma for, despite all the bombing and ground fighting, the North Vietnamese shows no sign of quitting.

Time Here To Harvest Your Gourds

About time to harvest a gourd crop? Maybe you are not certain about when to pick and how to cure your ornamental gourds.

Gourds having thick flesh are gathered before frost. Pick them after the rind has hardened and the stem shriveled. This information comes from the New Illustrated Encyclopedia of Gardening.

Handle gourds carefully so as not to bruise them, wipe them off with a soft cloth and apply a thin coat of ordinary floor wax.

We also checked with Mrs. Wilbur Mast whose husband raises many ornamental gourds for marketing. She says that Wilbur Mast cleans the gourds which he sells.

But for display purposes he rubs them with a thin coat of wax. Mast exhibits gourds at the Circleville Pumpkin Show where his attractive display draws crowds of interested visitors.

Dahlia Society Plans Annual Show

The Scioto Valley Dahlia Society will present its annual dahlia show Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, at the Junior Fair Building of the Ross County Fairgrounds.

General Chairman, Howard Hickmott, has announced that there will be more than 140 classes in the show. Schedules may be procured from Loring Hill, Kingston who is 1st vice-president and C. H. Bowen, 448 Arch St., Chillicothe. Bowen is secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Visiting hours will be from noon to 7 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Visitors may purchase a luncheon at noon Saturday.

Army Offers Schooling to HS Graduates

Staff Sgt. Charles Bauer, Army recruiter for Circleville and Pickaway County, announced today that the Army has a unique enlistment program which guarantees training school for high school graduates before they are enlisted.

Called the Graduate Specialist Program, it offers high school graduates a written guarantee of the classroom training of their choice before they enlist. Over 300 courses in precision, electrical and motor maintenance; electronics, general technical skills, medical training, military crafts, administration and graphics are offered under this program.

High school graduates may determine their initial qualifications at the recruiting office located at the Post Office.

Based on their abilities and interests, Sgt. Bauer will help them select their first choice and two alternates. If quotas for the first choice are filled, men may still become graduate specialists in one of their alternates.

The sergeant explained the Graduate Specialist Program guarantees young men a seat in the course of their choice if they decide to enlist. But it does not obligate them in any way. They do not have to accept an alternate and they may even decide not to enlist.

This program is offered through a three-year enlistment. Applicants are required to complete eight weeks of basic training prior to reporting to their school.

Further information about this program or about any of the other Army enlistment options may be obtained by contacting Sgt. Bauer at the Post Office on Thursday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Hard Line Policy Favored in Poll

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Clarence J. Brown Jr., Ohio Seventh District Republican, said Thursday a poll he took recently showed 73 per cent of those answering took a "hard line" on Vietnam while 21 per cent, could be considered dovish.

Brown said the questionnaires, covering a variety of subjects, were sent to about 75,000 residents of the Seventh District and that 13 per cent were returned.

Regarding U.S. foreign policy in general, a majority of those replying favored increasing East-West trade and backed a reduction of U.S. troop strength in Europe.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Forgiving Husband Deserves a Break

DEAR ABBY: I am 49 and my wife is 45. We have five wonderful children, are quite well-to-do, and live in a lovely large home. Last summer we met a handsome lieutenant in church and invited him for dinner. Being a lonely bachelor, he soon became a regular dinner guest. Then week-ends. Three months ago he left the navy and decided to locate in Norfolk permanently, so we invited him to live with us until he became established. Well, you know the rest. By the time I caught on, things had gone too far.

In order to save our marriage, I sought counsel from our pastor and tried to reason with my wife, who insisted all along that the lieutenant was only a "friend" whom she loved "like a son." (He is 29!) Meanwhile he had ingratiated himself with our children, buying them gifts, etc. (He has money.)

Finally, we had a showdown, and I threw the lieutenant out of our home. Now my wife will have nothing whatsoever to do with me. She has turned "his" room into a "shrine." She sleeps on his bed and has pictures of him all over. She writes to him daily. (He left town.) I think they are planning something.

Abby, I still love my wife. I have stayed away from lawyers because I don't want a divorce, but no man should be expected to put up with this. What do you suggest?

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: I suggest you see a lawyer, and tell him you don't want a divorce. In the meantime take your cues from your lawyer and play a waiting game.

Your wife may regain her senses. And the lieutenant may regain his, too. I'D BET against his taking on a 45-year-old mother of five permanently.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I received an "invitation" to a surprise party, honoring another couple on their 12th wedding anniversary. It was to be held at a supper club, and on the bottom was written, "If you care to join us at your own expense, please call—(phone number) RSVP."

The phone number happened to be the daughter of the "honored couple." She's no kid. She's a married woman. I have never heard of an invitation to a party at "one's own expense."

On MY 25th wedding anniversary, I had an open house, and I invited guests at MY expense.

Would you call this "join us at your own expense" type invitation proper? Or am I an old fuddy duddy?

AMAZED

DEAR AMAZED: When one is "invited" to a "party" at his own expense, he is not a guest, he's a donor.

DEAR ABBY: My problem will probably sound like it's from a 6-year-old, but I am a married woman with two children. I have a terrible fear of dentists. I keep making appointments and canceling them at the last minute because of this awful fear.

I begged my dentist to put me to sleep for any dental work he has to do, but he says he can't put me to sleep just to fill a few cavities.

He gave me four needles once, and I still feel the pain. Every time he comes near me with that drill I freeze up.

I have nice teeth, but I know I won't have them long if I don't get over this fear. Do you have any ideas?

PETRIFIED

DEAR PETRIFIED: Your dentist obviously is not trained in therapeutic hypnosis or he surely would have suggested it for you. Ask him to refer you to a dentist who is, I'm sure your dentist won't mind losing a patient who has consistently canceled out at the last minute.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost certainly the present drag-along condition of the war in Vietnam can't continue indefinitely with the 1968 presidential election coming up. President Johnson can't afford to let it go on like that if he hopes for a second term, and no one doubts he does. One of the byproducts of the war is a drag along condition in Congress.

From the time it opened shop last January, Congress has been grumbling and stalling, big on talk, short on performance. And a lot of the past eight months in Congress has been used, particularly by senators, in finding fault with the war.

The mood there would have been different if Johnson had been able to devote his energies to his programs and the lawmakers instead of having to split his attention among Congress, the war, and the city riots.

No one knows better than Johnson the advantage for him in next year's election campaign if he could point back to a shining record with Congress in 1967. The last impressive record there was in 1965.

But the war haunts him. The doves who have no stomach for the war and the hawks who want a tougher one are both on his back. And, unless there is a change, he will still be in the middle, a wide pen target, all through the 1968 campaign.

He's already had a taste of what's to come from at least two Republican presidential prospects, both governors: Ronald Reagan of California and George Romney of Michigan.

Romney, who says he thinks the presidential candidate with the best hope for victory is the one who talks peace, has developed a great distaste for the war. Reagan wants the war intensified to "win as quickly as possible."

Since the worst thing that could happen to Johnson in 1968 would be a continuance of the present stalemate, it will be to his interest to try to get peace negotiations started or to try to step up the war to break North Vietnam's back.

Yet, at this moment the Johnson Administration gives the impression of being baffled about how to do more in Vietnam or what to do next aside from the obvious things which everyone, including the North Vietnamese, knows it doesn't want to do.

It could finish North Vietnam in nothing flat, wiping it off the map, with nuclear bombs. Or, with conventional bombs, it could hit and destroy the centers of population, which is the only way North Vietnam can be crushed, according to Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense.

But if nuclear bombs were used, the Soviet Union, which is also a nuclear power, or Red China, or both, might feel com-

'Rhodes Raiders' To Seek Plants In Chicago Area

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two dozen Ohio industrial developers will spend most of next week in the Greater Chicago area seeking to bring new plants into the state and promote expansion of those already here.

Development Director Fred Nuenschwander said a full-page advertisement detailing the state's industrial advantages would appear nationwide in the Wall Street Journal next Tuesday in connection with the Chicago visit.

The $16,000 advertisement is another in a series of promotions by Gov. James A. Rhodes' administration for job expansion in Ohio.

The contingent, often called "Rhodes Raiders," plans to call on 260 companies in the Chicago area Sept. 18-22.

By James Marlow

ing them will not materially shorten the war for there is nothing to indicate North Vietnam can be bombed into wanting an end to the war. What then can be done?

Apparently the administration believes the war will have to be won with ground fighting and the kind of bombing that has been done. McNamara said the air strikes are simply a supplement, not a substitute for, ground action.

The world would be equally nauseated, and the Soviets and Chinese might feel compelled to get in, if the population centers were destroyed with ordinary bombs.

Not using either short-cut to victory has been an obvious, self-imposed restriction on the United States from the beginning. So its problem has been to find some other way to win, and nothing has worked yet. There's nothing new about it.

What is new is the administration's attitude expressed to a Senate subcommittee by McNamara, who certainly was speaking for Johnson, too. He admitted there were 57 targets which the Joint Chiefs of Staff recommended be bombed but which the Johnson Administration so far had not permitted to be hit.

But, McNamara said, bomb-

Time Here To Harvest Your Gourds

About time to harvest a gourd crop? Maybe you are not certain about when to pick and how to cure your ornamental gourds.

Gourds having thick flesh are gathered before frost. Pick them after the rind has hardened and the stem shriveled. This information comes from the New Illustrated Encyclopedia of Gardening.

Handle gourds carefully so as not to bruise them, wipe them off with a soft cloth and apply a thin coat of ordinary floor wax.

We also checked with Mrs. Wilbur Mast whose husband raises many ornamental gourds for marketing. She says that Wilbur Mast cleans the gourds which he sells.

But for display purposes he rubs them with a thin coat of wax. Mast exhibits gourds at the Circleville Pumpkin Show where his attractive display draws crowds of interested visitors.

Hard Line Policy Favored in Poll

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Clarence J. Brown Jr., Ohio Seventh District Republican, said Thursday a poll he took recently showed 73 per cent of those answering took a "hard line" on Vietnam while 21 per cent, could be considered dovish.

Brown said the questionnaires, covering a variety of subjects, were sent to about 75,000 residents of the Seventh District and that 13 per cent were returned.

Regarding U.S. foreign policy in general, a majority of those replying favored increasing East-West trade and backed a reduction of U.S. troop strength in Europe.

Russians May Have New Rocket Warhead
LONDON (AP) — A British defense ministry expert says the Russians are believed to have developed a giant rocket warhead which releases a shower of hydrogen bombs, each capable of being guided to a separate target. He said this could neutralize America's lead in the number of missiles.

Sinatra Treated For Teeth Injury
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Sinatra's upper lip was still swollen and bruised and he had prefabricated porcelain jackets on two front teeth today.
Dr. A. B. Weinstein, a New York City dentist, fitted the jackets after being flown to California to treat the entertainer injured by a Las Vegas, Nev., casino executive.
"We worked for about three hours or more," the dentist said Wednesday. "Frank is usually nervous, but he was just marvelous. He's that way when the chips are down."
Sinatra reportedly was hit by an official of the Sands Hotel during an incident Sunday that ended the singer's long association with the resort.

You're Looking At a MONSTER
Copyright 1967 Keister Advertising Service, Inc., Strasburg, Va.

Here is an example of a one-sided battle! It's that same old battle between the irresistible force and the immovable object.

Study the rounding edges of this massive granite formation. The wind is winning—persuasively and very definitely.

Note the deep clefts where chips have fallen from the old block. Rain, snow, ice are the victors here.

And see the pines growing topside on this barren bulk. Each year their roots press deeper into the hidden faults.

What does this prove? Well, for one thing it shows that the lifeless rock is no match for the moving, living, growing forces in God's creation. So never overestimate the strength of that stubborn secularism that sometimes appears to dominate our world.

In worship and religious pursuit, millions are linking their souls with the vital spiritual forces which shall prevail!

Russians May Have New Rocket Warhead
LONDON (AP) — A British defense ministry expert says the Russians are believed to have developed a giant rocket warhead which releases a shower of hydrogen bombs, each capable of being guided to a separate target. He said this could neutralize America's lead in the number of missiles.
Air Commodore Neil Cameron described the new weapon in the Royal Air Force Quarterly.

Sinatra Treated For Teeth Injury

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Sinatra's upper lip was still swollen and bruised and he had prefabricated porcelain jackets on two front teeth today.
Dr. A. B. Weinstein, a New York City dentist, fitted the jackets after being flown to California to treat the entertainer injured by a Las Vegas, Nev., casino executive.
"We worked for about three hours or more," the dentist said Wednesday. "Frank is usually nervous, but he was just marvelous. He's that way when the chips are down."
Sinatra reportedly was hit by an official of the Sands Hotel during an incident Sunday that ended the singer's long association with the resort.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .

. . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Here is an example of a one-sided battle! It's that same old battle between the irresistible force and the immovable object.

Study the rounding edges of this massive granite formation. The wind is winning—persuasively and very definitely.

Note the deep clefts where chips have fallen from the old block. Rain, snow, ice are the victors here.

And see the pines growing topside on this barren bulk. Each year their roots press deeper into the hidden faults.

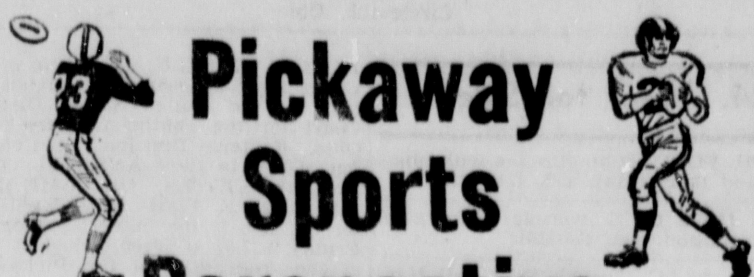

What does this prove? Well, for one thing it shows that the lifeless rock is no match for the moving, living, growing forces in God's creation. So never overestimate the strength of that stubborn secularism that sometimes appears to dominate our world.

In worship and religious pursuit, millions are linking their souls with the vital spiritual forces which shall prevail!

Pickaway Sports Perspective

Coaches comments: Hillsboro's Gene Reed — "We weren't ready physically or mentally for Lebanon and that's my fault." The Indians lost their opening game 28-6.

Maurice Pfeifer of Washington C. H. — "I was definitely pleased with our offensive line blocking. But we made too many mistakes, a lot of them elementary ones." Washington shutout Dayton Carroll, 33-0.

Wilmington Coach Jim Knowles — "We spent some extra time on offense. Now it looks like we should have spent that time on defense."

All South Central Ohio League quarterback Eddie Summers was called "the sparkplug from the word go" in the Miami Trace 22-8 win over Springfield Northwestern by Washington C. H. Record Herald sportswriter Mike Lewis.

Wilmington News-Journal veteran sports editor Dave Myers reported the difference between Wilmington and Hamilton Taft Friday was a "costly accumulation of bad breaks and the break-away running ability of the Taft backfield. The Hurricane lost, 36-20.

The McClain Tigers were a "victim to the Red Raider (London) passing attack," according to a story in the Greenfield Times.

Friday's South Central Ohio League football schedule finds Chillicothe playing at Washington in a rivalry that stems back to the early days of the league when the Cavaliers were a member of the loop. Chillicothe lost its first game to a rugged Dover High School grid team.

Miami Trace has added a new foe to its schedule in Bishop Wehrle, a new parochial school on Columbus' south side. Wilmington will travel to Springfield South, a school that annually produces a football powerhouse. One of the worst defeats suffered by a modern day Circleville High School team came at the hands of cross-town Springfield North. The Tigers lost, 73-6, to North in 1960.

Greenfield McClain plays at Jackson in a traditional pre-league tuneup. Hillsboro hosts Blanchester.

Circleville meets Teays Valley in one of the "newest traditional rivalries" of the league.

If you're interested, Eddie Wells was the leading groundgainer for the Tigers in the first game of the season, carrying the ball 23 times, he picked up 179 yards. Steve Dade gained 136 yards in 13 carries and caught two passes good for 32 yards.

Fifth-String Quarterback Now Directing Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If Woody Hayes were 30 years younger, a bit trimmer and eligible, he probably could solve Ohio State's quarterback problem.

The veteran Buckeye coach could play the position himself. Chances are Woody isn't thinking in such drastic terms, at least not yet. But if things get any worse in the Buckeye training camp, Hayes could lean heavily on his three-years-and-a-cloud-of-dust technique.

"We'll run more this season," Hayes told the visiting Big Ten Skywriters the other day.

"This year we have four or five backs who can run, something we haven't had recently. We have two or three fullbacks (Rudy Smith, Jim Otis, Paul Huff) and a couple of tailbacks (Dave Brungard and Ray Gillan) . . . and all of them can run."

In case you haven't kept count, the Bucks are working with their fifth quarterback these days. He's senior Sam Elliott, he is counted on to play a defensive corner back this year.

The Bucks lost three signal-callers in the first day and one-half of fall drills. No. 1 caller, Bill Long, found he couldn't go on a hamstring injury which he suffered in a baseball game.

No. 2 quarterback Gerry Ehram re-injured a hamstring and sophomore Dal Darnell of Columbus, listed as the No. 4 man, quit the team.

That put another soph, Kevin Rusnak of Garfield, N. J., in the picture and he responded brilliantly.

"He is a good all-around football player," Hayes said of the New Jersey import. That means Rusnak, a 6-foot-1, 187 pounder, can run and pass.

But two days ago, Rusnak turned up with bursitis of the right shoulder. He can't throw.

Trainer Ernie Biggs likens the ailment to a pitcher with a sore arm. Rusnak needs a few days of rest and hopefully, the ailment will disappear.

Now Hayes is using Elliott, who quarterbacked in high school and played that position early in his sophomore year.

But one Buckeye official said Elliott is only going through the motions. He is not expected to play on offense.

Of Long's injury, Hayes said: "I guess that all year he (Long) will be restricted in what he can do."

And if Long can't play at all, Hayes figures the Bucks will run more.

"We'll quit putting the ball in the air so often . . . and probably be a better team."

Ryan, Collins Injured But Set To Play

CLEVELAND (AP) — Passer Frank Ryan and one of his favorite receivers, Gary Collins, both were on the injured list today as the Cleveland Browns turned up for Sunday's season opener with the Dallas Cowboys. Both players said they would be ready Sunday.

Collins pulled a leg muscle, and Ryan sprained his right ankle in Thursday's practice session.

It was near the end of the practice that Ryan called a pass play, started to move back into the pocket, then turned the ankle and went down.

He was on his feet right away for one more play, but the ankle was swollen considerably by the time trainer Leo Murphy got him to the clubhouse at Fleming Field. Murphy applied ice, then taped the ankle.

Collins also got the ice treatment after pulling the muscle. He said he had been experiencing "a little soreness there for a couple of days."

"Then I made a cut," the receiver continued, "and had a sharp pain. I decided to stop before it got worse."

Collins went to Dr. Vic Ippolito, the team physician, who prescribed rest and said he should be ready by Sunday.

If Ryan is hampered by the injury, either veteran Dick Shiner or Gary Lane, a two-year man, could see some action against Dallas.

Devlin Takes Early Lead at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bruce Devlin said he has to do it again to believe it.

The 29-year-old Australian shot a seven-under-par 35-30-65 Thursday to take a two-stroke lead into today's second round of the $110,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

Devlin, who spreads 158 pounds sparingly on a 6-foot-1 frame, fired nine birdies in his best round in more than a year.

"I've been playing so bad I couldn't even beat my grandmother," said the blond Aussie after posting a two-stroke edge over Lou Graham and Bill Collins in the 72-hole test for the $22,000 first prize money.

UCLA Is Slight Favorite Over Vols in Key Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
UCLA and its celebrated quarterback, Gary Beban, rule an uneasy four-point favorite over rebounding Tennessee Saturday in the Los Angeles game that highlights college football's first busy weekend.

Texas A&M is a 10-point choice over Southern Methodist in the nationally televised feature at College Station, Tex., and both Southern California and Colorado are favored in contests involving teams expected to finish among the Top Ten in the country.

Southern Cal, seventh in the preseason poll of The Associated Press, is a six-point choice over Washington State in a Friday night game in Los Angeles, and Colorado, rated 10th, is rated nine points over Baylor at Boulder, Colo.

UCLA, with a 9-1 record last year, and Tennessee, 7-3 and winner over Syracuse in the Gator Bowl, are also rated among the year's best—UCLA picked eighth by a panel of experts and the Volunteers ninth.

The West Coast battle should produce one of the liveliest quarterback duels of the year.

Beban, a scrambling signal-caller who runs as well as he passes and who is advance favorite for Heisman Trophy honors, completed 156 of 309 passes during his first two seasons for 2,728 yards and ran for an additional 1,042 yards. He has scored 148 points.

Tennessee's antidote to Beban is a sharpshooting passer named Dewey Warren, who specialized in the bomb. On a team that has traditionally stayed on the ground, Warren completed 136 of 229 passes last season for 1,716 yards. His main target was a sure-fingered speedster named Richmond Flowers, who is back.

Southern California has come up again with a powerhouse team featuring a 6-foot-4, 220-pound fullback named Mike Hull; a flanker named Jim Lawrence, who can do the 100 in 9.6 seconds; O. J. Simpson, another nine-second man, and linemen who can move a house.

In the television game ABC-TV, 4 p.m. EDT, the Texas Aggies will present the strongest threat to the conference title since Paul "Bear" Bryant left to go to Alabama. The Aggies have a good quarterback in Eddy Hargett and excellent receivers in Tommy Maxwell and Tommy Buckman. SMU has been hit hard by graduation.

In other leading games, the Washington Huskies are a slight favorite over hefty Nebraska at Seattle, Wash., Oregon State is conceded a small edge over Stanford at Portland, Ore.; Duke is favored over Wake Forest at Raleigh, N.C.; Oklahoma State rates a touchdown over the Air Force Academy at Stillwater, Okla.; North Carolina State is picked to beat North Carolina and California favored over Oregon at Berkeley, Calif.

BOSTON (AP)—Tony Conigliaro, star Red Sox outfielder, is out for the remainder of the American League season because of blurred vision since he was hit on the head by a pitched ball last month.

Nolan Gets Nod Against Cards

CINCINNATI (AP) — Gary Nolan has done well against the St. Louis Cardinals in the past and the Cincinnati Reds are relying on him to get their effort to regain second place off to a good start.

Young Nolan, 13-6 is scheduled to pitch tonight when the Reds start a three-game series at Crosley Field with the National League leaders. Cincinnati is now in third place, 13 games off the pace and half a game behind second-place San Francisco.

The Cardinals were expected to go with Steve Carlton, 13-8, who was knocked out in the seventh inning in his only previous start against the Reds. Nolan is 2-1 against the Cardinals.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

UCLA and its celebrated quarterback, Gary Beban, rule an uneasy four-point favorite over rebounding Tennessee Saturday in the Los Angeles game that highlights college football's first busy weekend.

Texas A&M is a 10-point choice over Southern Methodist in the nationally televised feature at College Station, Tex., and both Southern California and Colorado are favored in contests involving teams expected to finish among the Top Ten in the country.

Southern Cal, seventh in the preseason poll of The Associated Press, is a six-point choice over Washington State in a Friday night game in Los Angeles, and Colorado, rated 10th, is rated nine points over Baylor at Boulder, Colo.

UCLA, with a 9-1 record last year, and Tennessee, 7-3 and winner over Syracuse in the Gator Bowl, are also rated among the year's best—UCLA picked eighth by a panel of experts and the Volunteers ninth.

The West Coast battle should produce one of the liveliest quarterback duels of the year.

Beban, a scrambling signal-caller who runs as well as he passes and who is advance favorite for Heisman Trophy honors, completed 156 of 309 passes during his first two seasons for 2,728 yards and ran for an additional 1,042 yards. He has scored 148 points.

Tennessee's antidote to Beban is a sharpshooting passer named Dewey Warren, who specialized in the bomb. On a team that has traditionally stayed on the ground, Warren completed 136 of 229 passes last season for 1,716 yards. His main target was a sure-fingered speedster named Richmond Flowers, who is back.

Southern California has come up again with a powerhouse team featuring a 6-foot-4, 220-pound fullback named Mike Hull; a flanker named Jim Lawrence, who can do the 100 in 9.6 seconds; O. J. Simpson, another nine-second man, and linemen who can move a house.

In the television game ABC-TV, 4 p.m. EDT, the Texas Aggies will present the strongest threat to the conference title since Paul "Bear" Bryant left to go to Alabama. The Aggies have a good quarterback in Edy Hargett and excellent receivers in Tommy Maxwell and Tommy Buckman. SMU has been hit hard by graduation.

In other leading games, the Washington Huskies are a slight favorite over hefty Nebraska at Seattle, Wash., Oregon State is conceded a small edge over Stanford at Portland, Ore.; Duke is favored over Wake Forest at Raleigh, N.C.; Oklahoma State rates a touchdown over the Air Force Academy at Stillwater, Okla.; North Carolina State is picked to beat North Carolina and California favored over Oregon at Berkeley, Calif.

Exciting Quinella wagering will be held on the ninth race each night of the four remaining nights, the first week of Quinell nights. The first week of Quinell-racing from $12 to $791.10.

The race for leading driver honors will go right down to the wire between Bill Herman, Terry Holton and Herman Foist. Herman, the leader most of the season is 27 years old from Washington C. H. Holton is 26 years of age from Newark, and Foist is the veteran reinsman from North Vernon, Ind., who won the driver crown in 1964.

Conigliaro Sidelined

BOSTON (AP)—Tony Conigliaro, star Red Sox outfielder, is out for the remainder of the American League season because of blurred vision since he was hit on the head by a pitched ball last month.

A's Move Is Hinted

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Owner Charles O. Finley of the A's made his first official move toward requesting permission to move the club by notifying the city manager Thursday that he doesn't intend to exercise his option to renew the lease on Municipal Stadium.

Race Season Nears End at Scioto Downs

The 1967 night harness racing season at Scioto Downs comes to a close Tuesday, and the officials of the suburban Columbus place have labeled this year, "as the most successful in the track's nine year history."

The Friday and Saturday night programs include the $4,000 Invitational Trot on Friday night, highlighting the return match between Interloper, La Belle Helene, Venture Gal, Stormedor, Honor Guest and Fair March.

Saturday night the exciting $4,000 Invitational Pace attracted nine entries including David Hudson, Bye Time, James E., Miss Red Lion, Hideaway Pat, Jerry Gauman, Short John, Royal Adios, and Hodgen Special.

The co-featured event Saturday night is the $2,500 Preferred Pace with nine starters including More Time, Masquerader's Boy, Waterbug, Eddie Pro, Mighty Dutch, Irish Miracle, Dandilly, Edgewood Duane, and Castle Knight.

Exciting Quinella wagering will be held on the ninth race each night of the four remaining nights, the first week of Quinell nights. The first week of Quinell-racing from $12 to $791.10.

The race for leading driver honors will go right down to the wire between Bill Herman, Terry Holton and Herman Foist. Herman, the leader most of the season is 27 years old from Washington C. H. Nolan Gets Nod Against Cards

CINCINNATI (AP) — Gary Nolan has done well against the St. Louis Cardinals in the past and the Cincinnati Reds are relying on him to get their effort to regain second place off to a good start.

Young Nolan, 13-6 is scheduled to pitch tonight when the Reds start a three-game series at Crosley Field with the National League leaders. Cincinnati is now in third place, 13 games off the pace and half a game behind second-place San Francisco.

The Cardinals were expected to go with Steve Carlton, 13-8, who was knocked out in the seventh inning in his only previous start against the Reds. Nolan is 2-1 against the Cardinals.

The Reds were off Thursday.

Crime Goes Up In Ohio Cities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Major crimes in Ohio for the first six months of this year showed marked increases compared to the similar periods in 1966, a report by the FBI discloses.

Murder figures almost doubled for some of the major cities. Missing from the report was information from Toledo, whose crime totals were not submitted in time for the study.

Ohio is not unique in the rise of major crimes in the indicated period as the report for the nation showed violent crimes increased 18 per cent. Individually, these nationwide percentage increases were shown:

Robbery 30, murder 20, aggravated assault 11 and forcible rape 7. The crime statistics for the major Ohio cities in the first six months this year with the comparable 1966 figure in parentheses, were:

Murder and negligent manslaughter — Akron 11 (5), Canton 4 (3), Cincinnati 28 (21), Cleveland 79 (57), Columbus 15

(9), Dayton 23 (11) and Youngstown 9 (4).

Forcible Rape—Akron 25 (18), Canton 5 (8), Cincinnati 50 (59), Cleveland 72 (62), Columbus 58 (49), Dayton 39 (24), Youngstown 2 (7).

Robbery — Akron 233 (182), Canton 51 (24), Cincinnati 225 (168), Cleveland 1,717 (1,069), Columbus 366 (245), Dayton 360 (126), Youngstown 135 (64).

Aggravated assault — Akron 14 (23), Canton 50 (33), Cincinnati 1,467 (1,467), Columbus 596 (508), Dayton 258 (256), Youngstown 116 (77).

Burglary—Akron 1,245 (1,007), Canton 388 (304), Cincinnati 1,589 (1,467), Columbus 3,369 (2,945), Dayton 1,690 (1,344), Youngstown 718 (484).

Larceny $50 or more—Akron 1,114 (832), Canton 356 (309), Cincinnati 691 (499), Youngstown 213 (194).

Auto Theft—Akron 1,686 (919), Canton 151 (35), Cincinnati 591 (422), Cleveland 5,076 (3,062), Columbus 1,209 (1,155), Dayton 314 (307).

Confederate Flag To Fly At Alabama Grid Games

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gov. Lurleen Wallace and the legislature have spoken, so the Confederate flag will wave again and the bands will play "Dixie" at college football games in Alabama this fall.

At the predominantly white schools, that is.

Official request or no official request, the two state-owned Negro colleges will stick with Old Glory and the National Anthem.

The other state-supported center of learning will fly the U.S. flag at their home games, too, and salute the colors with "The Star-Spangled Banner."

But, in response to a resolution adopted by the legislature and signed by the governor, they also will raise the Stars and Bars of the Old Confederacy and the Alabama State flag. And the bands, along with "Dixie," will try the state song, "Alabama," if they can find the music.

Two schools say they're having trouble locating it.

The legislature's resolution was addressed to all state-supported colleges, and that, of course, included the two Negro schools, Alabama State at Montgomery and Alabama A. M. at Huntsville. No one really expected them to go along.

The whole thing started with a dispute over the absence of the Confederate flag at the University of Alabama during a visit by the governor last summer.

State Sen. Alton Turner of Crenshaw County, an administration floor leader, got his dander up, he said, when University President Frank A. Rose told him the Confederate flag is "too controversial."

Among with the resolution asking the state colleges to hoist the Stars and Bars at all home games, Turner put through an appropriation of $195.67 for the

Marine Says He Killed Fairfax Boys

CINCINNATI (AP)—Authorities say a 17-year-old AWOL Marine told police officers in San Diego, Calif., Thursday that he killed two suburban Cincinnati boys nearly three years ago.

San Diego police said no charges were filed against the Marine, Pvt. Gary Lee McKee of Fairfax, Ohio. They said he was expected to appear in juvenile court there today and may be transferred to an adult court.

Police in Fairfax, a Cincinnati suburb, said they would begin searching this morning for the bodies of the missing boys, Jame McQueary and John Hundley, both 9, when they disappeared.

Police homicide Lt. Edward C. Stevens of San Diego said McKee told officers he knifed the two boys to death and buried their bodies in a wooded area.

No trace has been found of the two boys since they vanished Oct. 15, 1964. Their disappearance, coming barely 10 weeks after 3-year-old Debbie Dappen's body was found under a neighbor's porch, touched off near panic among parents in Fairfax.

Chillicothe Firm Head Convicted on Charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Robert E. Carroll, president of Carroll Food Products, Inc., Chillicothe, was convicted on two counts in U.S. District Court Thursday of causing food to be adulterated while held for sale. He was placed on one year probation. The company also was convicted and fined $200.

The government had charged in a six-round indictment that Pretzels, popcorn and other foods had been stored in buildings accessible to rodents.

7th District Survey Shows Farm Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Clarence J. Brown Jr., R-Ohio, said Thursday that 72 per cent of the respondents to a questionnaire he circulated in his congressional district indicated support for proposals to restrict mail order sale and interstate shipment of firearms.

Brown said 75,000 questionnaires were distributed and about 10,000 replies received. He also said a majority of those answering were critical of present farm price support programs and favored legislation to control imports of dairy products and beef.

NEW YORK (AP)—It seems very likely that Raymond Burr, has created in Robert Ironside, crime fighter, a character that may match in popularity his Perry Mason.

The first episode of the series, "Ironside," broadcast Thursday night on NBC, was a fast-moving police action story based on a $175,000 theft from a racetrack. There were a couple of chases, some knockouts with gun butts and other usual accoutrements to this type of story, but it was given flavor and individuality by Burr's acting.

His role is a former San Francisco chief of detectives, paralyzed by a bullet in the spine—accounted for in a two-hour made-for-TV feature shown last season and repeated last week. Although helpless in a wheelchair, he manages to get around with some help from devoted assistants. There is his personal helper, a handsome young detective and a pretty young policewoman—all of whom undoubtedly will be in frequent peril during the coming month as the spot lines develop.

Don Mitchell as his personal aide, gives his role a stormy, almost hostile reading as he plays a young, angry Negro dropout on his way back. Burr's Ironside is a mixture of testy, impatient policeman and warm sentimental father image and he is very appealing in the part.

The hour-long show was much more satisfying, dramatically, than the long feature since it moved faster and in a single direction.

With police stories shaping up as the successor to spy drama a new, hot TV trend, it is a good bet that Burr will soon find that he's in another hit series.

Dean Martin slid—literally—down his usual fireman's pole onto the television screens for a third season of Thursday night variety hours. The easy-going program with its deceptively casual and relaxed atmosphere has got to stack up as one of the best shows of its kind around the networks.

Two of Martin's three guests were unlikely participants in the action. There was Orson Welles, looking very much like a younger Winston Churchill, and James Stewart. Actors often look and act like beached fish in variety shows. But Welles was given an amusing monologue about his old days in radio when he was racing between studios to act in parts ranging from "The Shadow" to soap opera. Stewart told a very funny story about believing his own publicity and even played a little rudimentary piano. All three men were amusing in a sketch set in a men's hair styling salon in the manner that script writers fondly imagine is the way women carry on under the dryers.

Both immediate and lasting results. Easy to use. Guaranteed to give professional exterminator results when used as directed.
